DESCRIBE KILLING OF SHEA BOY

Boston Woman Shatters Goelet Romance

THAW A WINNER IN WASHINGTON

RICH PAIR FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

NEWPORT, Jan. 22.—A Boston girl—an "old flame" of Robert Goelet's student days at Harvard, is the secret, underlying cause of the Goelet divorce suit, if there is any foundation for current rumor here.

Mrs. Goelet, who was Elsie Whelen, and who at the time of her marriage in 1904 and now is ranked as one of the most beautiful society women in America, has brought suit in Newport on the ostensible ground of "extreme cruelty," and the suit will come up, it is expected, early next month.

$500,000,000 ROMANCE.

The "$500,000,000 romance" of the Goelets attracted nation-wide attention. Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, was an attendant at the wedding. Last Summer, when the couple became estranged, it was whispered that the Boston girl now connected with the case was really to blame.

It is not expected that Mr. Goelet will make any strong contest, save perhaps for the custody of the three beautiful children.

The story of the "Boston girl" is the generally accepted explanation of the separation here. The girl is a Summer resident at Newport—or has been at times. But another explanation given of the shattered romance lies in the old phrase—"Art vs. Home."

Young Mrs. Goelet has artistic aspirations that her husband frown on. Last Summer she spent a great deal of her time at the studio of Henry Clews, Jr., going there almost every day, where Elijah Baxter, an artist of note, instructed her.

DIDN'T SPEAK IN HOME.

Mr. Goelet is in New York at the present time, but is expected to sail

Why I Shot Wm. E. Annis

By Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., U.S.A.

Annis had invaded Captain Hains' home, and had taken advantage of the Captain's absence on army duty.

In justice to himself and for the sake of his children, Captain Hains now feels it his duty to take the public into his confidence, to lead them behind the scenes in his domestic life, to show them the forces which worked the ruin of his home—and to let the public judge whether the death of Annis at his hands was justified.

The First Chapter of this remarkable series of revelations will appear in Next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

FEDERAL REBUFF TO JEROME

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Harry K. Thaw won a substantial victory, and William Travers Jerome, Thaw's "Nemesis," received a severe rebuff, when the federal Department of Justice gave notice today that it would not interfere in the Thaw case.

Jerome, after a consultation with New York's Attorney-General and Governor, threatened to appeal to the department and ask it to warn Judge Edgar Aldrich of the United States District Court for New Hampshire that he must not question the good faith of New York in the Thaw extradition proceedings.

This statement makes it certain that Harry K. Thaw will not be returned to Matteawan before the Fall of 1915; for no matter what Judge Aldrich's decision may be, an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court by either Thaw or Jerome, and the case in its regular place on the calendar cannot be reached before late in 1915—or perhaps early the following year.

"WITHOUT JURISDICTION."

The question of possible action by the Department of Justice was put up to officers of the department today. Attorney-General McReynolds replied:

"New York State is the interested party, not the government of the United States."

Assistant Attorney-General Adams said:

"The department is without jurisdiction in the Thaw case."

From other sources at the department it was learned that if former District Attorney Jerome has any intention of threatening Judge Aldrich by seeking pressure from the department to influence the judge's consideration or non-consideration of the "good intentions of the State of New York" in respect to the extradition of Thaw, the department has no knowledge of it; nor would it consider a party to such a proposition.

Attorneys of the department declare it would be absurd for Jerome to do so, because, they say, "any lawyer knows that the Department of Justice has no jurisdiction over any case after it has been placed before the court for adjudication."

CAN ONLY APPEAL.

The only thing Jerome can do, the Department of Justice holds, is to note an appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Aldrich to the Supreme Court of the United States—if there is a constitutional question to be determined.

If Jerome's appeal is taken to the Supreme Court it will follow the routine calendar for consideration. This would place the Thaw case before the court for argument in about a year and a half, or in the Fall of 1915.

The only time that the Department of Justice ever had an interest in the Thaw case was when a request was received during the Taft administration for a federal lunacy commission to test Thaw's sanity. At that time Attorney-General Wickersham held that the government of the United States was not a party to the proceedings and held no interest in the case, and that it was purely a matter for the consideration of the State of New York.

SURVIVORS LANDED AT BERMUDA

A dispatch today from Bermuda said that Captain D. H. Carlisle and thirteen men—the crew of the five-masted schooner Prescott Palmer—had been landed there by a schooner which rescued them from their sinking vessel.

In the storm of the twelfth, the Prescott Palmer, Fuller Palmer (of the same line), and Grace A. Martin were lost. Both the other crews were rescued and have already been reported.

BIG FIGHT ON RADIUM MONOPOLY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Intimations by Representative Austin of Tennessee that radium conservation bills were introduced only as a means of heading off a gigantic scheme to monopolize radium producing mines of American, were given to an enthusiastic discussion between Austin and Joseph M. Flannery of Pittsburgh before the House Committee on Mines and Mining today.

Flannery, who is president of the Standard Chemical Company, the only producers of radium in the United States, was belligerent in his attitude toward the majority of the committee.

"I don't know whether you are going to grab these lands away from the prospectors and pioneers or not," Flannery declared. "You have no right to do it. We have put all the coin into these claims."

AND RADIUM MONOPOLY.

"I would not trust my own party any one of the disciples," said Austin, "with the privilege of getting a monopoly of control over these radium lands. We are going to see that you don't get one either."

"Well, I don't know about that," retorted Flannery, pounding the table in his ire. "That's not so sure yet."

Chairman Foster opened the day's hearing by reading a telegram which Flannery sent to a Denver newspaper urging a newspaper crusade against the withdrawal of radium lands which has been proposed by Secretary of the Interior Lane.

This shot at Flannery was followed by the reading of articles from liberal

COLLINS TELLS OF POLICE SHOOTING

David Collins, who was with young Ralph P. Shea when the latter was shot and killed by Patrolman Charles W. Miller early in the morning of June 17 last, described the shooting in detail and the trouble which preceded it at the manslaughter trial of Miller in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court today.

Mrs. Shea, mother of the slain youth, was one of the courtroom spectators. Assistant District Attorney Timothy J. Leary was putting most the autopsy surgeon, Dr. Collins' story.

Young Collins, as the witness' eyes on the bench, told of the events of the night.

Collins swore that Shea started to walk away, when without a word to the policeman, whom Shea could not hold responsible for his actions, Miller drew his revolver and fired.

SHOT, THEN GONE.

Recalling the shooting, Collins said:

"Shea and me had just started to walk away, when without a word to us Miller drew his revolver and fired. I heard a shot, then I saw Miller come into the doorway. He let a second shot go as he started down the stairway. About eight steps up Collins identified Miller as the man who fired the shots.

Collins admitted, under cross-examination by John P. Feeley, counsel for Miller, that he had been drinking that night.

NO SIGNS OF BLOWS ON SHEA'S BODY, SAYS MEDICAL EXAMINER

...l for Miller, that he had had twenty-five drinks of beer and whiskey that day. He was working in a saloon. But he maintained that he had four hours sleep, from 9 p. m. that night to 1 in the morning, just preceding the shooting and that he was sober.

Medical Examiner Leary, who presided Collins, testified that the autopsy showed beer in Shea's stomach, also that the only mark on his head was a bullet wound. Dr. Leary said that Shea could not have been hit four times with a billy, as described by Catherins Bresnahan, without the marks of the blows showing on the head.

The court room was crowded again today. A settee was put across the doorway to check the crowd. Many policemen in citizens' clothes were among the spectators at this trial of a brother-patrolman.

Several attorneys in terested in the question of a policeman's powers under the law came to listen to the testimony.

Miss Catherine Bresnahan, who testified in direct examination yesterday that she saw Miller strike Ralph P. Shea over the head four times with a billy and that Miller later fired into a doorway where Shea had taken refuge, was cross-examined today.

In her direct testimony Miss Bresnahan said she did not remember that any bottles were thrown at Shea.

Under cross-examination today the girl recalled seeing broken glass in front of No. 110 Warrenton street that night.

DIDN'T REMEMBER.

Miss Bresnahan insisted to Mr. Feeney that she had told in direct examination all she could remember of the conversation between Miller, Shea, herself and her brother, Cornelius Bresnahan, when Miller had her brother under arrest at the patrol box.

"What did Ralph P. Shea say at the box?" asked Mr. Feeney.

The girl replied: "Ralph asked me why he (Miller) had arrested Connie. I said I didn't know."

"Did you say to Shea 'Kill him, Ralph, kill him, Ralph?'" asked Mr. Feeney, adding: "I want you to think that question over."

Miss Bresnahan replied: "I don't remember."

Mr. Feeney repeated the question and the girl repeated that she did not remember.

Q.—Did you hear Dunn, referring to Miller, say: "Let's lynch so and so?" A.—I didn't hear him.

Q.—Where did you see Officer Miller take the revolver from his pocket? A.—After allijh Shea started to run along Warrenton street.

Q.—When you saw the revolver in his hand, what did you do? A.—I got scared and ran to my house.

Q.—Was there a shot fired when you ran? A.—Yes, it was when the first shot was fired that I ran.

SECOND SHOT FIRED.

Q.—Where were you when the second shot was fired? A.—I was in my doorway.

Q.—Where was this second shot fired? A.—In the doorway at No. 108.

Q.—Whom did you see go into the doorway? A.—Ralph Shea.

Q.—Who else? A.—(hesitating)—Two men—I thought one of them was Ralph Shea.

Q.—Where was the officer standing? A.—Outside the doorway.

Q.—Will you say he didn't stand inside the doorway? A.—(hesitating) —I don't remember.

Q.—Did you see the officer when he fired the shot? A.—Yes, sir.

BEER IN VICTIM'S STOMACH.

Medical Examiner Timothy J. Leary, who was called after the shooting, was the next witness. Mrs. Nora Shea, mother of the dead youth, and his sister, Mrs. Ellen McCarthy, were requested to leave the court during Dr. Leary's testimony.

The medical examiner said the body was that of a young man about six feet tall, well nourished and weighing about 180 pounds. He described the bullet wound and in speaking of the autopsy on Shea said that the body was that of a healthy man, but with more fat in the liver than usual.

The medical examiner swore that his examination of the contents of Shea's stomach showed that it contained a quantity of beer.

NO SIGNS OF BLOW.

Cross-examined, Dr. Leary said: "It is impossible for a man to receive four blows on the head, such as described were struck by Miller on Shea, without some signs of it remaining. Even if there had been a change in the body after each death such blows would show evidence where the blood vessels had been ruptured by the scalp being strongly forced against the skull.

"I made a careful examination of the body by daylight and found no signs of injury aside from the bullet wound."

BRADLEY GIRL DRAGGED HOME UNDER GUARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Joel M. Foster, the wealthy poultry man of Pemberton, N. J., was reunited with his eighteen-year-old stenographer, Lillah Bradley, and was arrested with her under the Mann law in Mobile, returned to Philadelphia today, where he is trying to make arrangements to see the girl again.

Meanwhile, the girl, literally fighting her father and two detectives who conducted her to her home in Pemberton, actually shouted statements to reporters who followed them vowing her affection for Foster.

"I love Joel as much as ever, and I want him and the whole world to know it," she screamed as her father picked her up in his arms to carry her into the house. "Put that in the papers. I know he will get a divorce and then I'll marry him and he'll take me away from here. They dragged me from him by force in Mobile. They've had to drag me everywhere they wanted me to go. I want to be with Joel and they can't keep me away from him."

Miss Bradley's father declared today that if Foster continued to make efforts to get in communication with his daughter he would have him arrested. Burlington, N. J., officials are quoted as saying there was no charge upon which Foster could be held, and it is believed he may go to Pemberton and try to communicate with the girl.

EXPECT GOELET TO BATTLE FOR THREE CHILDREN

soon for Europe. Mrs. Goelet is in Europe. It is understood Mr. Goelet will be served with the summons in the case there today, if he has not already been served.

Last season Mr. Goelet was in Newport very little, although he hired the Fitzhugh Whitehouse place on Rhode Island avenue, and came there for a few days at a time.

While he was under the same roof with his wife they never met, living in different parts of the large house. When any communication was necessary they invariably sent messages, written and sealed, by the butler. Mr. Goelet's mother, Mrs Ogden Goelet, remained away from Newport last Summer, after trying in vain to reconcile her son and his wife, and did not open Ochre Court, her place on the Cliffs.

Robert Goelet is the great-grandson of Peter Goelet, the old Knickerbocker burgher who literally pastured his cows on Broadway, and, incidentally, bought up a good deal of that lush pasture land at 4 and 5 cent prices.

Peter Goelet left a son, Robert, who left two sons, Robert and Ogden. Robert left one son, Robert Walton Goelet, and one daughter, Beatrice, who died and left her share of the family fortunes to her brother, thereby making him the richest bachelor in America, which he still is. The other completes one branch of the Goelets.

SISTER BECAME DUCHESS.

The other branch, descended from Ogden Goelet, consists of Robert Goelet, whose marital troubles are now to the front, and his sister, May, who became the Duchess of Roxburghe.

Just a the family tree of Robert Goelet, who is often confused with his cousin, "Bobby," the bachelor.

Nine years ago Robert Goelet married Miss Whelen, daughter of Henry Whelen of Philadelphia. She was a girl of rare beauty and was acknowledged as the most charming debutante of that season.

The wedding was known as the "fifty-million dollar" bridal, on account of the bridegroom's tremendous wealth. Goelet invested unlimited riches on his bride. Her income was unstinted. As she once remarked to a Newport matron: "My dear, I just can't begin to spend my allowance."

The Goelet town house at No. 647 Fifth avenue, New York, is a palace within. Mrs. Goelet's beauty, her own social position in Philadelphia and the backing of the Goelet millions and prestige gave her unlimited opportunities.

COUPLE SEEMED HAPPY.

The couple seemed quite happy. Two children were born, sturdy boys. The oldest, named Ogden Goelet for his grandfather, was seven years old last Saturday. In September, 1911, the second baby was born and christened Peter Gerry Goelet, for the founder of the family fortunes.

In July Mr. Goelet disappeared into the Maine woods and sought the solace of luxurious camp in the woods.

Then society began to talk and to ask question. There was even report of a contemplated separation. Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. Goelet's personal lawyer, was asked. Untermyer promptly didn't "know anything about it."

JACK JOHNSON PERSECUTED, SAYS COUNSEL

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Benjamin Bachrach, attorney for Jack Johnson, pugilist, convicted of violation of the Mann act, made a plea in the Federal Court of Appeals yesterday charging that real "white slavers" were apparently immune, while government officials "persecuted" Caminetti and Johnson. An extract from the brief reads:

"Evidence shows beyond a reasonable doubt there was in existence an organized system, or syndicate, having for its purpose the importation of women from foreign countries to Chicago and other cities of the United States for immoral purposes.

"It is conservatively estimated that this syndicate has imported annually during the preceding eight or ten years on an average of about 2,000 women—largely French.

"The books kept by a notorious importer of French girls arrested in Chicago disclosed his earnings for the year previous to his arrest to have been $102,000."

Names Frick in Big Public Radium Gift

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—"There is a philanthropist, who has a plan to give up twenty institutions in the centres of population, such as New York, Chicago, Boston and the rest, at a cost of $15,000,000, so that all cancer victims may be treated free of charge. He wants to have five grams of radium for each of these twenty places."

Thus announced J. M. Flannery, president of the Standard Chemical Company of Pittsburgh, before the House Mines and Mining Committee.

Mr. Flannery refused to name the would-be benefactor, intimating he is neither John D. Rockefeller nor Andrew Carnegie.

It is reported, however, Henry C. Frick, the Pittsburgh multi-millionaire philanthropist, is the man.

POLICE TO VIEW PROTESTED FILM SHOW AT BEACH

After investigating numerous complaints that an "improper" show had been put on at the Dream Moving Picture Theatre at Winthrop Beach, Chief of Police Burrill of Winthrop announced today that he will attend tonight's performance with two policemen.

"If there is anything objectionable I shall put an immediate stop to it and prosecute," said the chief.

The chief declared men and women had told him they would call in the State police to act if necessary.

Tonight's show has been advertised "For Women Only." Last night's show which caused the complaints was "For Men Only," according to posters scattered throughout Winthrop. The Chief said he had barred "Sapho," a four-reel film, which was stated for the men's show. In the place of this was shown "The Reincarnation of Karma," which is said to have been barred in other places.

"FOR WOMEN ONLY."

"The complainants told me last night's vaudeville was vile, wicked and offensively plain," said Chief Burrill. "For tonight they have advertised the women's show and the posters read something like this:

"'Women, be sure and be present; there's something good in store for you.'

"I conferred with Chairman Magee of the Selectmen. He told me the board would back me in any steps I might take.

"I saw the manager of the theatre. He told me Mr. Casey, Mayor Fitzgerald's censor, had put his O. K. on the 'Sapho' film. I told him Boston had nothing to do with Winthrop. He cut 'Sapho' out."

"There was a parody on Poe's great poem, 'The Raven,' which was exceedingly coarse and filthy," said one complainant. "It was very offensive. And they made a laughing stock of Chief Burrill. The chief told them not to put on 'Sapho,' a film. Instead of that they put on one they called 'The Reincarnation of Karma,' which has been forbidden in Boston and Brockton."

WERE ALLOWED TO SMOKE.

W. P. Stover, the druggist at Winthrop Beach, said:

"Only men attended and we were allowed to smoke. There were stories told that wouldn't have been told had women been present.

"Yes, I do regard it as a strange thing that the show was allowed to go on. I understand there was a policeman on hand. I saw several firemen."

H. M. McKenney, owner of the Dream Theatre, said today that there was nothing improper about the "men only" show. He said:

"Our 'Sapho' film was protested. I ran it off for the chief and he said it was not very elevating, so we did not show it last night."

Return Jeff Davis' Guns to Estate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Secretary of War Garrison has directed that certain articles taken by Union soldiers from the person of Jefferson Davis when the Confederate President was captured be surrendered to Joseph A. Hayes of Colorado Springs, Col., as representative of the estate of Jefferson Davis. Among the articles are a double barrelled pistol and two duelling pistols.

Warns of Big Food Famine Near in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A food famine threatens the country, and the farmers need a billion dollars' credit immediately to meet this emergency by developing their lands, F. C. Hobbs, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Farmers' National Union, told the Rural Credits Committee of the House.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN WILL AID CHURCH DAY

More than 10,000 Sunday School children of Somerville will be asked to wear next Sunday the Go-to-Church Day button and work up the attendance at the churches among the young people.

The ministers of this section have established in connection with the observance of Go-to-Church on February 8, a "Continuance Committee," led by the Rev. Dr. F. W. O'Brien, pastor of the Baptist Church. This committee will hold a meeting tonight to discuss "How to Keep Up Go-to-Church Day Results."

The Rev. G. H. Spencer, pastor of the Upham Memorial Methodist Church, Forest Hills, will put a question box in his church and answer all questions on Sunday worship in the prelude to his sermons. "Make your questions to the point and make them clear," he urges. Several automobiles have been offered to this church for Go-to-Church Day and will be used for the morning service, to assist the aged and infirm. Ten thousand registration cards have been circulated by the South End churches in reaching the non-church goers.

The South End churches will also hold a mass meeting in Clarendon Street Baptist Church on Tuesday, January 27, at 7:30 p. m. This meeting will be addressed by the Rev. Drs. A. H. Nazarian, Herbert Johnson and W. M. Tufts.

Every Sunday School child will be told directly next Sunday in the Boston schools about Go-to-Church Day. The child will be asked to bring the subject of going to church to the attention of the parents. It has been found in many Boston churches that parents send their children to the churches but do not attend regularly themselves.

HAMILTON, THE NOTED AVIATOR, DIES SUDDENLY

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Charles K. Hamilton, one of the best known aviators in America, died suddenly today at his home. He was found in bed by his wife, suffering from a hemorrhage. She called up police headquarters and asked that medical attention be sent.

Dr. Brush of the Knickerbocker Hospital was dispatched to the Hamilton home, but the airman was dead before the physician arrived.

Hamilton, who was thirty-four years old, had been in ill health for two years and on several occasions went to private sanitariums for treatment for nervous breakdowns. He learned to fly under the tutelage of Glenn H. Curtiss and was the first aviator to fly over Long Island Sound.

THE OLD BUTLER CORNER—90 TREMONT STREET

WIFE DENIES JEALOUSY IN LOVELL SUIT

The friends of Mrs. Josephine Gertrude Lovell, whose petition for separate support was filed yesterday against Arthur W. Lovell, rallied to her support today. Mrs. Lovell in a brief interview denied her husband's charge of jealousy.

Mr. Lovell is a member of the firm of Blount & Lovell, machinists. He and his wife separated some months ago. He gave this explanation:

QUEERED BUSINESS.

"In my business of making engines, it was often necessary for me to call on customers on the phone in regard to orders. When they were not there, I often talked with their wives. My wife heard me talking with them when I called up from my home. She was jealous. She went to them and I concluded I had better get out before she queered my business any further.

"I have paid her $12.50 a week for about a year and a half. About two months ago, when my business got slack, I cut it to $6. I suppose that is the occasion for the separate support petition. I'm glad the petition has been brought. I'll be in court to contest it when it comes up."

To this Mrs. Lovell replies:

"It is untrue that I was ever jealous of him. He simply has an exaggerated idea of his own importance. My petition for separate support is not the cloak to any scandalous disclosures. It is simply a move to get myself a living."

Margaret A. Norwood, Mrs. Lovell's sister, commented:

BACKED BY RELATIVES.

"All of her friends and relatives are back of Mrs. Lovell in this fight. She has been under a doctor's care for eighteen months and since he left her. Arthur Lovell told me himself that he didn't know why he left her, that she must have been too good for him. He tore up all her photographs when he went away. She is an invalid, and she can't live on $6 a week."

The Lovells formerly lived at No. 165 Columbia road, Dorchester. Mrs. Lovell was a bride at twenty. They were married in her home city, Gloucester, where she is now living with a brother, T. F. Holloran, at No. 10 Baker street.

SWIFT RULES THAT RAISE IN PRICE OF ICE WAS NOT JUSTIFIED

The advance in the price of ice last Summer to the Massachusetts consumer, Attorney-General James M. Swift finds in a preliminary report to the Legislature, out today, was not justified.

This is shown, the Attorney-General says, by statements of the companies themselves, in reply to the request that they state their own reasons for justification for the increase.

The Attorney-General's office found one case of an "agreement in writing concerning the ice business." He reports to the Legislature today that the trial of the Commonwealth against the North shore ice combine is expected to be reached for trial within a short time.

SCOPE OF TEST CASE.

This prosecution will be somewhat in the nature of a test case of the existing law. It grows out of the legislative order adopted last June in the House of Representatives, when there was an apparent scarcity of ice and the price was soaking 367 wards.

The retiring attorney-general says he was powerless to act much on the information asked for by the house because it was "solely within the control of the ice companies themselves, especially the ratio of profit per ton and the ultimate net profit to the dealer."

The evidence to prove cases, the attorney-general says, "is most difficult to obtain."

"The situation in the city of Lynn, however," he continues, "disclosed definite evidence of AN AGREEMENT IN WRITING CONCERNING THE ICE BUSINESS, of an apparent combination known as the North shore Ice Delivery Company, combining the 'Lynn Ice Company,

"Coolidge Ice Company

"Chase Ice Company

"Independent Ice Company

"Glenmere Ice Company and

"Forest Pond Ice Company."

MAY PROVE VALUE OF LAW.

"I employed Lee M. Friedman, Esq., of Boston, who has made a special study of this branch of the law, to act as special counsel in the proceedings against the Lynn combination. All preliminary matters in court have been concluded, and the case is likely to be reached for trial on its merits at an early date. I believe that the outcome of this case will disclose more exactly the value of our Massachusetts law covering the situation."

Attorney General Swift began his investigation in all the cities and largest towns. The State police and local departments did the work.

Ice companies were requested to answer thirty-four questions.

The total number of ice dealers, covering all the cities and some of the larger towns, is 167.

The estimated wholesale supply of ice of the 167 companies on June 1, 1912, was 1,530,724 tons, for the year 1913, 1,376,871 tons, or a total diminution in supply of 27 per cent.

"A small number of ice dealers," the report says, "handle almost half the total supply in the Commonwealth," and "a striking feature is that retail prices were not raised by dealers in eighteen cities and towns, supplying 9 per cent of the total, although these dealers suffered a shortage in supply of 12.5 per cent under their 1912 supply.

RETAIL PRICES RAISED.

"On the other hand, retail prices were raised by dealers in thirty-nine cities and towns, controlling 49 per cent of the supply who reported a shortage of 33.14 per cent.

"It is apparent that the mere shortage of supply is not conclusive evidence of justification of increase in the prices charged for this season. This is also shown by statements of the companies themselves in reply to my request to state their own reasons for justification for an increase."

Eleven companies made "no answer"; sixty blamed the "shortage"; twenty-three said there has been an increase in the wholesale price to them; five said they had been compelled to buy outside the Commonwealth; eighteen blamed the increased cost of business and of handling the ice.

PATIENTS TELL OF WONDERFUL RADIUM CURES

Jarn sent by Gunsery to American consuls, describing the success of the business of his company and declaring that he had not only sold radium, radium compresses and various radium salts.

DENOUNCES U. S. ACTIVITY.

Fenby wanted to know whether Pinchot had proved the curative value of radium waters. The consul-ing replied that he had not proved that it had cured anything, but referred to one of the physicians whom he has brought from Pittsburgh to give radiation on that point.

Representative Taylor of Colorado continued his attack of yesterday on the whole conservation policy of the government, denouncing the present activities of the Interior department as "anti-American."

Representative Curtis, Republican, of Kansas, of Missouri and Representative Austin, tried in vain to learn how many pairs of horse shoes he had sold to consumers for the Panama canal and how many Panama hats had been sold to the canal commission, but was unsuccessful in getting the information, apparently owing to the fact that the commission is "strongly opposed to any publicity concerning its affairs."

Representative Fitzgerald, democrat, of New York, protested against the action of the commission in refusing to furnish information to congress.

REMARKABLE CURES OF VARIOUS DISEASES BY USE OF RADIUM

READING, Pa., Jan. 22.—Dr. Howard A. Kelly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and Dr. Robert Abbe of St. Luke's Hospital, New York, have been gaining world-wide fame by their recent announcements of success with the radium treatment for cancer, but Dr. John Ege, a local surgeon, physician and health officer, was probably the first American physician to prove the wonderful power of radium to cure cancer.

Dr. Ege has used it constantly since 1904. He has cured in scores cases tuberculosis of the joints and appendicitis, and has even restored sight.

Dr. Ege owns twelve tubes of radium of 10,000 to 2,000,000 degrees of activity.

Mrs. H. T. Stoutt of this city was treated by Dr. Ege in March, 1910, for epithelioma of the nose. He applied 200 milligrams of radium to the growth and within two months Mrs. Stoutt was entirely cured.

Jacob Haldeman of Sunbury, Pa., had suffered for a year from cancer on both hands, when, on June 4, 1906, he was given the first radium treatment. On November 12, 1906, he was pronounced permanently cured. Radium had been applied seven times.

Mrs. S. Holland, fifty-three, who had been suffering for several years with lupus vulgaris, was given treatment by radium. The growth had spread over the entire face, leaving a cavity in the centre of the forehead. On April 10, 1910, ten milligrams of radium were applied later five additional tubes of radium of a milder degree of activity were used. Within less than three months the growth disappeared.

William Edward Mischler, eighteen, was treated in October, 1910.

"For five weeks I had been kept in an ice pack," Mr. Mischler told the reporter. "I was suffering the most agonizing pains, but was not strong enough to undergo the surgical operation. One tube of radium was applied and within twenty-four hours the pain had entirely disappeared. On February 21, 1911, I again was stricken with appendicitis. Six tubes of radium were applied and within forty-eight hours my pain had disappeared."

Mr. Mischler displayed the seven scars left on his body by the radium produced by the radium.

Discussing other treatments for appendicitis, Dr. Ege said:

"The severest cases of appendicitis have been relieved in two days. At the end of the second day the radium is removed."

Senate Vote Today on Alaska R. R. Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Senate today is expected to pass the Alaska railroad bill providing for the construction of, not to exceed, 1,000 miles of railroad, at a cost of $35,000,000. Voting on amendments will begin at 4 o'clock. Under the terms of the bill the President is given discretion to outline the route and prescribe the conditions of construction.

Ex-Senator Cullom Is Much Improved

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A 8:30 a. m. the condition of Former Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois was greatly improved. His physician stated that he patient spent a good night, that his pulse was normal and that he had had partaken of a substantial breakfast.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and natural, renove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is oding, gray or dry, scraggy and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

Everybody with gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

YOUNG GLASS WINS FIGHT TO DIVORCE HIS BOSTON BRIDE

Mrs. Helen Roche Glass, Bride of Harvard "Gold Coast" student, in a striking pose.

Mrs. Helen Roche Glass, who eloped to Nashua, N. H., with Graham Glass, Jr., a wealthy Harvard student, three years ago, will be divorced Friday, after a long series of court tangles which have beset the path of Cupid.

The young bride failed to put in an appearance to contest her husband's suit at Portland, Ore., and the court has prepared to hear his testimony and sign the final decree tomorrow.

Glass' father is a wealthy Portland publisher. At the time of the young man's wedding the elder Glass came to Cambridge and sought to have the ceremony annulled, but found he could do nothing, as his son was of legal age.

Mrs. Glass herself asked for a divorce later, charging Glass had deserted her and had failed to provide for her. Young Glass was then back with the "Gold Coasters" at Ridgely Hall. She failed to get her divorce.

Then Glass himself entered suit, charging misconduct and naming two men. He claims she sailed for Europe with one of these, and posed as the latter's wife on a tour which took her through Liverpool, Paris, Neuhausen, Switzerland, Zurich, Rigi-Kulm, Lucerne, Interlaken, Montreaux, all in Switzerland; Aix Les Bains, Lyons and Marseilles, France, and Venice.

This treatment is alleged to have caused him much mental distress and to have made him an object of unpleasant notoriety.

On February 27, 1911, an automobile party, comprising Glass, Miss Roche, C. A. Chase, another Harvard man, and Mrs. E. D. Walker, took a midnight ride to Nashua, N. H. Just after starting some one is said to have telephoned Boston newspapers that Glass and Miss Roche had been married, and the story was printed.

The automobile party read this story the next morning while breakfasting in a Nashua hotel, and the immediate proposal of Glass to Miss Roche that she marry him at once and thereby "make good" the newspaper stories was accepted.

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. THOMSON, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for women's ills known.

CURLEY TO URGE MANY REFORMS IN CITY AFFAIRS

Mayor elect Curley busy in the Berkshire hills near North Adams preparing his inaugural message, announces his intention of advocating these reforms:

"Putting city employes on honor, more hours of the three Rs and less of fads in the public schools, segregation of persons arrested for drunkenness, reduction of sentences for those arrested for intoxication, the building of a separate institution at Deer Island for the purpose of curing persons suffering from intoxication, and the establishment of public workshops along the lines suggested in those municipalities, whereby employment may be furnished on a fair basis of their own."

"More attention should be given to the three R's," said Curley, "and less to the fads and fancies which at present seem to attract the attention of the teachers.

"The success of the private so-called business colleges, which have prospered amazingly, is a standing indictment of our public school system.

"The public works department presents a great and difficult problem. I am still looking for a great big man to become the head of it.

"The city employees of Boston are the best paid and best treated set of laborers I know of. There is no sense having a loss to every workman

Beeckman to Reform Juvenile Court Laws

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 22.—R. Livingston Beeckman, Newport society leader and a member of the State Senate, has taken up the cudgels for better juvenile Court laws. In a measure he has introduced in the Legislature, it is provided that Juvenile Courts be established to care for children under sixteen. The law forbids placing minors in prison and the State control over "incorrigibles" under seventeen.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The remarkable feat of recording a distant wireless message by magnified images of the signals thrown on a screen was the surprise in a unique meeting held here to mark the start of the newly-formed wireless society of London. SANBORN RAPS HIS EX-WIFE IN FIGHT FOR SON

In his answer to the charges made by Mrs. Florence Madeline Sanborn in her suit to obtain the legal custody and maintenance of her son, Robert C. Sanborn, of New York city declared he would rather have the boy on a farm away from the influences of the mother. He said that when he obtained his decree of divorce in the Cambridge courts in 1911 he pressed the charge of desertion rather than any other out of kindness for Mrs. Sanborn.

The boy, Robert W. Sanborn, is now attending a Brookline primary school, having

The Man Who Sells More Pianos Than All Others Together.

The Man Who Has Put Pianos Within the Reach of All.

J. P. Collins

THE PIANO KING

Gives Another Talk on Piano Buying

It's an old-time "trick of salesmanship" for a salesman to try to sell you an article "just as good" for less money. In most cases the buyer gets inferior goods. But in the "piano business" such is not the case. We can sell you pianos for many dollars less than other dealers. This is accounted for in many ways. We have numerous ways of getting pianos besides from the manufacturer, where we would be tied up by contract to sell at a certain price. We have no large, expensive salesrooms, with expensive finishing and electrical displays to pay for. Other dealers have, and you pay for it. We have no salesmen out on the road to increase the expense. We pay CASH for everything and take advantage of all the discounts. All these and many other ways enable us to sell at a very close margin, and when you buy here you pay for "piano only," and not a lot of expenses added. We believe it to be a fact that we sell more pianos than any other dealer in the city. We believe it better business to have "many small profits" than a few large ones. It will pay you to investigate our goods and methods.

QUEEN ELENORA ASKS MORE AID FOR BULGARIA

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Queen Elenora of Bulgaria, who asked the aid of the Hearst papers to help in the alleviation of distress among the Bulgarians, has written to Henry M. Wallis of Reading, Pa., who recently returned from Bulgaria, where he went to distribute relief on behalf of the Society of Friends.

After thanking him for his help and adding that she would be glad to learn that the Hearst papers in America were interesting themselves in our unfortunate sufferers, the letter concludes:

"May God bless and reward all generous givers whose true and Christian sympathy and ready helpfulness will forever remain living in our grateful hearts."

The last mail from Bulgaria brings letters from agents of private philanthropists now working for the relief of the distressed refugees. All emphasize the urgent necessity of dispatching money, food and clothing material at once if lives are to be saved within the next few weeks.

BAY STATE WOMAN PLEADS FOR STARVING SISTERS IN BULGARIA

The AMERICAN has received this appeal, enclosing a dollar contribution, from a woman who knows the conditions in Bulgaria, for contributions to the fund being raised to succor starving Bulgarian women:

People of New England:

I am especially anxious that we as a Christian nation send some help to the starving multitudes of the Balkan States.

About forty years ago a cousin of my mother left Germany to become an instructor of agriculture in Bulgaria. A year ago this man's four sons were in the army, their places of business had been closed six months, suffering had already begun among the wives and children. They may be among those now whose homes are burned, whose children are starving orphans. I write all this to call attention that there were many thrifty, intelligent Christians among them.

Suppose that every family in New England, every reader of the AMERICAN, would give the price of one loaf of bread, sending it to the AMERICAN or the pastor of their church. Would it not be like manna falling from the heavens to those starving nations? MRS. G.

Here is what one girl writes:

Jan. 21.

I am a little girl nine years old, my name is Agnes. I had read in the AMERICAN about the poor starving people in Bulgaria. I will give this five cents because I don't need it. Don't be mad.

U. S. HUNT FOR THE SONGS OUR FATHERS SANG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A nation-wide hunt for old ballads has been begun by the United States Bureau of Education. Lost versions of the songs that helped mold the character of the men and women of colonial days are sought and every State is expected to interest itself in the task.

Convinced that many of the English and Scottish popular ballads of olden times still survive in the United States and that immediate steps are necessary to rescue them from oblivion, the bureau has commissioned Professor C. Alphonse Smith of the University of Virginia, a prominent folk lore investigator, to institute a national search.

"If our American versions are not collected immediately they can never be collected at all," said Professor Smith today. "Many influences are tending to obliterate them." A list of 305 of the ballads has been distributed to teachers and others by the bureau. The plan is to start a ballad colection for each State, so that State folk lore societies may be encouraged to keep up the work.

WELLESLEY IN GLOOM, BAN PUT ON TANGO

The tango, voted terrible by many and pronounced proper by others, continues to come in for a large share of denunciation. Announcement is made today that the Wellesley Senior "Prom" in the Mary Hemenway gymnasium, February 6 will be tangoless. This has plunged the student body into gloom.

"There will be only such of the so-called modern dances as are in good taste and can be danced with dignity and grace, such as the minuet and the Caria walk, which are being taught in the most conservative dancing schools.

"The senior promenade shall set an example of moderation, dignity and restraint in dancing to the entire student body," the formal announcement reads.

The old-fashioned two-steps, waltzes and quadrilles were exclusively danced by members of the Harvard and Radcliffe faculties and their partners at the annual reception in the living room of the Harvard Club.

Superintendent Frank J. Prasloe of the Lynn English High schools, in the tango war, the seniors were bemoaning the fact today that they must pay a fine of twenty-five cents each or be barred from the class banquet in June.

Since Mayor French of Concord, N. H., issued his edict against the tango, it is claimed that city is the only one in New England free from the tango. A round of all the dance halls by patrolmen has disclosed no trace of the tango.

Lastly, Cardinal Cavallari, patriarch of Venice, has instructed his ecclesiastics to refuse absolution to all who, having danced the tango, refuse to pledge themselves to discontinue the practice.

Natick School Strike Leaders Reinstated

The final chapter in the Natick High School strike was written last night, when the School Board voted to reinstate Leo Burns and Edward Burke, who were suspended by Superintendent John D. Brooks, on the recommendation of Principal Edwin A. Shaw, for insubordination, following the strike of the football squad. The boys will be expected to make an apology, and the incident will then be forgotten.

Auto News

S. D. Waldon, vice-president of the Packard Motor Car Company, M. J. Budlong, general Eastern sales manager, New York Manager Knuckler, and J. G. Vincent, chief engineer, who have been spending the last few days in this city, are mightily pleased with the reception accorded the new Packard car, which seems to have created as great, if not greater, sensation as any of the Packard models that have gone before.

In speaking about conditions in the industry, Vice-President Waldon said: "I think the finality of design and construction has been about reached. The industry is today in a much better condition than it was a few years ago. All of the big changes in design and construction are behind us and what we have to look forward to is not so radical as what has been experienced. For instance, in the mater of electric units it has been fully determined by past experiences that each electrical system for starting and lighting and motor ignition should be on separate units and that is one of the things that is behind us.

"The change of position in drive and control, the matter of clutch, the matter of transmission and various other things have been thoroughly considered. We no longer will have to give our attention to those things. We have gone through the evolutions of the motor industry and today the model or models are closer to the ultimate design than they ever were. I do not look for any great change and feel that the present model will continue in constructive detail for many years to come."

The Maxwell Motor Company is planning to defend the prowess of American-made cars against the world. This company has for some time been busy in the construction of three racing cars with which it is expected to beat all previous records on the Indianapolis speedway. Ray Harroun, one-time winner of the big Memorial Day race, is in charge of these cars and will see to it that they are properly tuned up. The Maxwell Company is confident that this car will be finished and in shape to compete in the big event on next Memorial Day.

Just what it is to be will be a secret until this night, when Chairman Nettleton promises a surprise. This will be the first of a series of like events to be held once a month and judging from the way the committee has started work there are many nights of fun ahead.

ELIZABETH F. HANAN TO WED ITALIAN DUKE 30 YEARS HER JUNIOR

Miss Elizabeth Frances Hanaan, daughter of the late James Hanan and sister of John H. Hanan, and her fiance, the Duca Don Arturo de Majo Durrazzo of Italy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The wedding on February 17 of the Duke Don Arturo de Majo Durrazzo to Miss Elizabeth Frances Hanan, sister of John H. Hanan, will be distinguished by the attendance of society people from all the cities of the East.

The romance, uncommonly beautiful in its origin—the mutual devotion of Miss Hanan and the Duke to the work of human uplift—began on a cruise of John Hanan's yacht, the Surf, in the Mediterranean, a year ago last Summer.

The young duke (he is twenty-four years old), was a guest on board the yacht. He had begun a movement in cities of Italy for a scientific application of the generosity of the rich—for practical charity.

Miss Hanan, who has devoted her life to charitable work—who has refused the offers of marriage of titled foreigners and more-than-a American, because of that devotion—was greatly impressed by the force of character of the young scion of ancient kings.

"She is thirty years older than he is, but he is more than thirty years older than the present age," said a friend yesterday. "It will be one of the happiest marriages."

The marriage will take place at the John H. Hanan home, No. 1,075 Fifth avenue. The Duke was present at the wedding of Talbot Smith-Hanan and Miss Florence Perkins.

He comes of an Italian family reckoned to 1272 and its history is in Nobility of Italy." The family dates back to L272 and its history is interwoven with the stories of the famous old Italian cities of Capua, Foggia, Lucera, Catanzaro, Venice, Naples and Rome.

The Duke's father, Marquis Francesco Demaio Durrazzo died two years ago. The Duke is spending this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan and next Monday will be at the Ritz-Carlton.

LIBRARIANS OF STATE CONVENE IN SOMERVILLE

Three hundred members of the Massachusetts Library Club, coming from all parts of New England, today held their mid-Winter meeting at Somerville by invitation of the local library trustees. Drew Bert Hall, president of the club, is Somerville's public librarian. He succeeded the late Sam Walter Foss.

The morning session was held in the new $125,000 Carnegie branch building on Central Hill Park, where the members had their choice of three round table meetings:

"Classification and reference work and their articulation and improvement, led by Mrs. Frances B. Coe, revisor, and Miss Mabel Williams, reference librarian, of the Somerville library; schools, club work and the public library, led by Miss Lucy B. Crain, supervisor of children's work and Miss Marian Lovis, high school librarian, of the Somerville Library; address, "Ways and Means of Professional Development," for chief librarians, by Charles F. D. Belden, chairman of the State Library Commission.

Dr. Thomas M. Durell, president of the Somerville Library trustees, made an address of welcome at the afternoon session in the new hall of the high school. Committee reports and other business was followed by an address, "Words of Cheer from a Comrade," by the Rev. Dr. Charles I. Noyes, pastor of the Winter Hill Congregational Church, and a member of the Somerville Library trustees.

The annual dinner will be held this evening at the Exchange Club, when there will be a dramatic recital of Henry Arthur Jones' play, "Dolly Reforming Herself," by Christabel W. Kidder.

Stork Forces Town to Build New School

ROEBLING, N. J., Jan. 22.—An active stork will cost taxpayers of Florence township $100,000, according to plans for a new school building submitted to a town meeting.

The new building is made necessary by the refusal of the John A. Roebling Sons Company to continue paying the expense of educating all children, a plan adopted when the firm established this as a "model town."

Already 4,622 banks have made legal application for membership in the new system.

HUERTA RAISING ANOTHER ARMY TO MEET VILLA

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 22.—War Minister Blanquet announced today that another Federal army would be put in the field to meet General Villa's Constitutional army in its march against the capital.

President Huerta is expected to lead this army in person if certain republican rebels relating to the conduct of the government are successful, and if the war office is able to find a sufficient number of soldiers to defend any division.

General Blanquet also said he had positive proof that Pascualito Orozco, who was reported to have been killed in the fall of Ojinaga, is alive and near Torreon with a force of Federals.

Much comment is still prevalent here over the conferences at Vera Cruz between Jesus Flores Magon and Special Envoy John Lind. The latest report was that Huerta is trying to induce the American government to favor a Mexican loan with which interest on the national debt can be paid.

Admiral Paul Von Hintze, the German Minister to Mexico is expected to return here from Vera Cruz tomorrow.

Official reports that two train loads of ammunition were sent south today by General E. A. Benavides to be used by General Villa's Constitutionalists in attacks against Torreon and Mexico City.

"We will have 20,000 small arms with plenty of ammunition, thirty field guns, forty-five machine guns and 3,000 hand grenades when the actual campaign around the capital begins," the rebels' demands read.

The rebels are now being paid in silver minted by the Constitutionalist provisional government.

SLAYER HOLDS PASSENGERS ON LINER IN PANIC

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The story of how a demented steerage passenger held a ship in panic was told here today upon the arrival of the steamer Berlin from Southern Europe.

On board the Berlin in irons was Antonio Cupertino, who had shot and killed Dr. Gannoni Arrigo, Italian Royal Commissioner of Immigration just as a ship was entering the harbor at Gibraltar on January 12.

Cupertino, who is said to be suffering from epileptic dementia, will be deported or held here until he can be taken in custody by representatives of the Italian government. He is accompanied by his twelve-year-old son.

On the morning of January 12, Cupertino became violent and ran among the other steerage passengers waving a revolver above his head. All ran out of the steerage compartment in terror, leaving Cupertino alone.

Dr. Arrigo tried to parley with the demented man, but the latter refused to give up his weapon. The enemy turned a fire hose upon Cupertino, but still the man remained defiant. Finally he demanded to see the captain.

"I am the captain," said Dr. Arrigo. "Lay down your gun and I will talk to you."

Cupertino laid the weapon on a table and walked to a port hole. He turned just in time to see Dr. Arrigo reaching for the weapon, and in the struggle which followed the passenger got possession of the revolver. Knocking Dr. Arrigo down the demented man emptied the revolver into the prostrate official's body.

The shots and confusion in the meantime aroused the entire ship, and many of the passengers locked themselves in their state rooms.

At Gibraltar the body of Dr. Arrigo was taken ashore, but the authorities refused to allow Cupertino to be landed. Dr. Arrigo was a surgeon in the Italian navy and was on the Berlin on inspection duty.

Taft Tells Dangers of Sex Literature

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.—Ex-President Taft at a local business college commencement dwelt upon the dangers of sex literature and sex plays, which, he says, "spread lubricity under the plea that vice may be avoided by teaching its awful consequences."

"By dwelling on its details and exhibiting its penalties, sexual subjects are shrouded into discussion between the sexes, lectures are delivered on them, and text books are written, and former restrains of modesty are abandoned."

How I Darkened My Gray Hair

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp. You can prepare it at home at very little expense. Adv.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF—25-CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the quickest, surest dandruff cure known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied, causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight — now — anytime — will surely save your hair.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

REPORT TODAY ON MYSTERY IN ASYLUM DEATH

Medical Examiner George B. Magrath completed his autopsy today on the body of Mrs. Mary A. Sullivan of East Boston, whose recent death at the Grafton Colony of the Worcester Insane Hospital has been the subject of official investigation. Dr. Magrath planned to make a report of the autopsy to the State Board of Insanity before night.

Mrs. Sullivan died January 21. When the body arrived at East Boston an embalmer noticed multiple cuts, bruises and other marks, which resulted in complaint to the State Board of Insanity. Dr. L. F. Wentworth viewed the body for the State Board and Medical Examiner Magrath ordered that after the funeral last Saturday the body be transferred to North Grove Street Morgue for an autopsy.

Mrs. Sullivan's aged mother and her brothers and sister have demanded the fullest investigation.

On account of the recent probe into treatment of patients at Worcester Hospital there has been extra interest in the case of Mrs. Sullivan. Her death was originally said to have been due to paresis, but the body bruises made the family suspicious.

MAY HIRE GUARD FOR POSTERS OF SUFFRAGISTS

The possibility that women detectives may be hired to guard the posters advertising Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's appearance at the big suffrage meeting at Tremont Temple Saturday night, and plans for a guard as escort of ten working girls to accompany Mrs. Belmont during her stay in Boston, were features of the preparations for the meeting today.

The Boston Equal Suffrage Association is in charge of the meeting. Besides Mrs. Belmont, Senators Clapp of Minnesota, Thomas of Colorado and Kenyon of Iowa will speak. Governor Walsh, Mayor Fitzgerald and the members of the Legislature have been invited to attend.

The necessity of hiring detectives to guard the advertising posters developed today when it was learned that some 500, placed in Huntington avenue and South End shops, had mysteriously disappeared.

The shop keepers were questioned and declared that women had appeared at the stores and said:

IDENTITY "PLOTTERS."

"We have concluded to put this placard elsewhere," whereupon in each case the placard was given up and taken away by the visitors. Suffragists say these women have been identified as prominent "antis." The suffrage forces thereupon sent out "monitors" to see that the cards were not disturbed.

Among the prominent women who are active in preparation for the meeting are Mrs. Oakes Ames of No. 260 Beacon street, Mrs. John Leonard of Brookline, Mrs. Theresa Crowley and Mrs. Mary Agnes Mahan. Mrs. Ames is vice-chairman of the Belmont reception committee. She espoused the cause, it is said, from a conviction that it would be for the best interests of her four children.

This is Mrs. Belmont's first public appearance in Boston. She will speak on political corruption and its cure, and will afterwards hold conferences with local suffragists. At these conferences she is expected to broach plans for building in Boston a "Suffrage Building," to house a suffrage restaurant along the lines she has made successful in New York, a reading and retiring room and a hall for suffrage meetings.

She will also meet a group of college girls to discuss with them the vocations they shall adopt upon graduation.

COLLEGE GIRLS USHERS.

College girls from Wellesley, Radcliffe and Smith, wearing white gowns with long yellow sashes, marked "Votes for Women," will act as ushers at the meeting. These girls, representing the different trades for women, will co-operate with the college girls in helping them to distribute suffrage literature.

Suffrage leaders have called upon leading politicians and urged them to attend the lecture. Matthew Hale, Progressive; Charles E. Hatfield, Republican, and Michael O'Leary, Democrat, have assured the committee that they will be present.

Mrs. Maud Wood Park, Mrs. Mary W. Page and Mrs. Francis H. Williams are on the committee for arranging the entertainments of Mrs. Belmont during her stay in Boston. Upon her arrival on Friday night she will be driven to the Copley-Plaza and make this hotel her headquarters.

girls. A number of the girl-workers who are suffragists requested that they be given the honor of escorting her from the Hotel Copley-Plaza to Tremont Temple. Mrs. Belmont will receive her escorts in her apartments in the Copley-Plaza just prior to leaving for Tremont Temple.

The following are among the girl-workers who will act as Mrs. Belmont's personal escort: Stenographer, Miss Helen E. REPLIES VARY ON MESSENGER 'BRAIN TWISTER'

The "Brain Twister" the AMERICAN has published dealing with the question of how far a messenger travels in going from the rear of an army, twenty-eight miles long, to the front and back again, the army being in motion, has evoked a host of answers—which are far from being in agreement.

The favorite answer, however, seems to be that the messenger traveled 67.6 miles. Here are a few of those received:

W. C. Hazelhurst, Malden—The messenger traveled just eighty-four miles.

H. N. Mellan of No. 134 State street, Minneota, Minn., placed the messenger's journey just 67.6 miles long.

James J. Kahn, No. 117 Chambers street, Boston—The answer is 67.6 miles.

Estil V. Pauli, Worcester—He will travel 60 2-5 miles.

Miss A. M. Mutch, No. 39 Vernon street, Winthrop—He traveled 84 miles.

A. S. Shadel, Lawrence—Fifty-six miles only.

Charles Waghorne, Melrose—Sixty-seven and six-tenths miles is the answer.

R. H. Jameson, Gleason House, Marlboro—The answer, carried to four places of decimals, is 67.5808.

The cats were so nearly alike that the question of ownership, after the pedigrees had been closely examined hinged on the shape of the eyes. Mrs. Freedley discovered that the feline intended for her had large, round eyes, while the one intended for Mrs. Wignell had oval ones, like those of a celestial and hair a trifle shorter

Make Hairs Disappear Almost Like Magic

(Toilet Tips)

Advocates of the electric needle for removing stubborn hairy growths now concede that a simple paste made with powdered delatone and water is fully as efficacious and is devoid of pain, while the cost is trifling. The delatone paste is left on the hairy surface about two minutes and when it is rubbed off all traces of hair vanish. Washing leaves the skin soft, smooth and spotless. Be careful to see that it is delatone you get or you may be disappointed with the result.

NEW BRAIN TWISTER

Answer Early, Avoid the Rush

REALLY IT'S TOO EASY

Here we are again—lest you forget, here is re-printed below the most puzzling brain teaser printed for a long time. Here's the problem:

A messenger leaves the rear of an army twenty-eight miles long as it begins its day's march.

He goes to the front and at once returns, reaching the rear when the army camps for the night.

How far did he travel, if the army marched twenty-eight miles during the day?

Eliot Favors Small Board of Education

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, in launching a campaign for a smaller Board of Education, told the Public Education Association that actual experience has demonstrated that the board consisting of from five to twelve members is more efficient than a large board such as is maintained here. The larger board, he pointed out, leads to the scattering of effort and "oratory" for which the smaller board would give no occasion.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

FOR THIS MOSQUITO

That the actual completion of the Panama Canal is directly attributable to the practical extermination of disease-bearing mosquitoes is conceded to be a fact by the best authorities.

It has been but a few years since science discovered the transmission of yellow fever and malaria by mosquitoes of certain species. The French were ignorant of sanitary knowledge, or, at least, negligent in applying what they possessed.

More Than $6,000,000 has been expended in cleaning up the Canal Zone, and ridding it of its murderous insect pests.

The mortality figures during the French and American activities clearly show the favorable results of this campaign of sanitation. During a period of nine years the French lost 22,189 men out of an average number of 10,200 men employed on the canal work. During a similar period under American supervision the loss has been less than 4,000 men out of an average of 33,000 employed on the work.

The Canal Zone has been changed from a pesthole into a place as fit for human habitation as any spot on the globe.

The Home Beauty Parlor

by Betty Dean

Marie: Your shortsightedness and squinting are probably caused by a weak and overworked condition of the eyes. I do not think your eye troubles are serious; they can be relieved with the daily application of two or three drops at a time of this simple tonic: Dissolve an ounce of cryston in a pint of water. This will be a great comfort as well as a beautifier and will prevent that squinting which is apt to make crow's-feet and lines about the eyes. Take my advice, don't worry.

Hilda: There are many methods advocated for reducing the chin; but, after all, there is nothing so good as to keep down the greasy flesh. And this does not require any vigorous dieting or exercising if you will take this simple remedy which you can mix at home. Get four ounces of parcels of the slenderizer, and dissolve it in 1½ pints water. Take a tablespoonful before meals. It will work magic with the "dreaded double chin" and you will experience no bad effects. High collars should be worn as little as possible. They increase the tendency to flabby throat.

Miss L. G.: Here is a hair tonic which you can prepare at home at small expense and which is a genuine hair grower if the best and simplest kind. Use it once a week, and every time by frequent shampooing with eastbrus and then rub into your scalp this tonic, made by dissolving an ounce of quinsoin in a half pint of alcohol and adding one half pint cold water. For all scalp troubles and badly nourished hair this is an unequalled remedy.

Olive: I never recommend a hair dye, but unless I am much mistaken about your age, you should not have trouble with faded or gray hair for a long while yet. The best way in the world to stop your hair troubles is to wash with cantharis occasionally. Use a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. It is the best thing I know of to remove dandruff and prevent brittleness, split hairs and the irritation caused by excess oil. It cleanses thoroughly, and has none of the objectionable qualities of soap or ordinary shampoos. This is very economical and easy to use. Dries quickly and can be used with the very least waste of time.

Miss H. O.: Your skin trouble sounds as if it were caused by your use of ordinary face powders. They give an artificial look—especially if one is inclined to be sallow or pimpled. The very thing for you is spormas—the best liquid lotion I know about. It is economical because you mix it yourself at home. Get 4 ounces spormas (at any druggists) and mix it with ½ pint hot water, add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, apply it to face, neck and arms. The effect will surprise you with its beauty and naturalness. It will clear as if a part of your skin, and last during an entire evening. It will not only disguise cold sores, blemishes, etc., but in time it will relieve them entirely.

Lily Dale: For your hollow cheeks and sallow, colorless skin there is nothing better in the world than this greaseless complexion gelly which you can easily prepare at home. Get one ounce of albolodin, put it in a fruit jar, add half a pint cold water and two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Stir briskly and let stand over night. Use of this with careful massaging will improve skin nutrition and give transparency and loveliness to the complexion. It is fine to correct pimples.

Isabel: I was glad to read of your enthusiasm about the cackling chicken and gladly respond also to your request for this old-fashioned home preparation. Dissolve one-half cup sugar and one ounce lardene in one-half pint alcohol; then add enough boiling water to make a full pint. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. Using your sodden distaste for your hair as you say, shrivel, and this tonic will, bringing the waters of immortality, restore sparkling energies and spirits. For a good complexion beautifier see answer to Miss H. O.

J. E. SULLIVAN PICKS YANKEES TO WIN AGAIN

By FRANK G. MENKE.

James E. Sullivan is so confident that the American athletes will repeat their 1912 triumph at the Olympic meet in 1916 that he is not even according the "once over" to those European nations that are making frantic efforts to build up teams intended to snatch the laurel leaves from the dome of Uncle Sam.

Sullivan, it may be mentioned, is secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, the biggest figure in amateur athletics in America, and the guardian angel for thousands of young amateurs who are daily tempted by the professionals to forsake the amateur ranks and compete as "pros." Sullivan said today:

No one in America need be worried over the fact that the Europeans are grabbing off a few of our trainers and already are building up for 1916. Those trainers they lured away from us were mighty good men, but we've got a lot more. And as for that building up business we've got a large "edge" on those European gentlemen.

EUROPEANS IMITATING U. S. A.

Over on the other side they are just imitating what we've been doing for seven years. They aren't waiting until about a year before the meet is to take place to develop and select their athletes as they used to do. They're busy now bringing out all the talent they can.

That's what we've been doing for many, many years. The purpose of all these indoor meets and outdoor meets we have in different cities in the country all the year-around is to develop the young athletes and bring the talent to the fore. The records of every athlete are kept and when time comes he is given a chance to compete for the honor of being one of the American team.

BETTER TEAM IN 1916.

"We had a mighty good team entered in the 1912 meet, but I think we'll have even a better one in 1916, and one that may surprise the world. Most of the star athletes will be chosen by America in 1912 will compete for the chance to be a member of the 1916 team. Since 1912 some mighty fine young athletes, unheard of before, have come to the front and before 1916 there will be an equally many more amateur stars in our athletic firmament.

"Now, don't get the idea that I think we're going to have it easy when we meet those fellows in the Olympic games. We aren't. We're going to have the greatest battle of our lives. That 1910 meet will be nothing to the most bitterly contested in history. Europe in Europe the athletic authorities are awakened to our supremacy and they are leaving nothing undone to get together teams which they hope will best us.

But we've got the stars; we have some wonderful athletes here. And the best of it is they have been trained for years and are always in perfect condition. They have the benefit of training at the hands of the greatest athletic trainers in the world, and when the gladiatorial battles are fought out in May or June, 1916, you may look for some record smashing by the army of athletes who will compete for the privilege of going to Berlin.

Irish Champion Here, Seeks Mat Title

Pat Connelly, the Irish heavyweight wrestler, today announced that he was in the field for the light heavyweight championship. Connelly is in Boston seeking a match with "Cyclone" Burns, the South End whirlwind.

"Nothing would please me better than to meet Gerhardt, Burns, Waldek Zbyszko or any other man between 190 and 210 pounds for the title," said Connelly. "Of course, this weight limit does not mean that it is arbitrary, as nothing would please me better than an opportunity to prove that a skillful wrestler of my weight can conceive a way to fight and still give a beating to nine out of ten of the ultra-heavyweights.

HOCKEY NEWS AND NOTES

Joe Hall, probably as a result of the Laconia incident, is playing a very careful game, and is not the fighter he was a few years ago. Joe is one of the cleanest sort. Hall did not use his body.

The Hall-Lacoste set-to may yet be settled in the courts. Manager George Kennedy of the Quebecs is looking over the ground with a view to bringing suit for damages. He says he has the way clear to take action if the case is not settled, and declares that Hall should draw a long suspension for his attack.

The Sherbrooke hockey team, which played in Boston Monday night, is planning a visit to this section the border. Molyneaux, Brownie Baker, Wigmore, Hodgins, Gallagher, Gilbert and Hockey Sutherland are playing their old brand of hockey and this combination is a hard one to beat.

Tommy McGowan, who has practically decided to quit with the professional league, has changed his mind and will stick with "Ma Maloney" another season.

Odie Cleghorn, the star player of the Wanderers, displayed a great deal of pluck in the game Saturday. He played the last eighteen minutes of the game with a broken collar bone and a badly injured ankle. The Wanderers are now in a badly crippled condition, Hyland, Art Ross, Odie Cleghorn and Roberts all being on the injured list.

Ed Sayer, Watertown's star Portia hockey player and Soldier Somerville High star, may be added to the fighting list of the Pilgrim A. A. in the near future. Sayer's showing a speedy game on the forward line this season and is each season showing improvement.

SOX ADVANCE GUARD GOING SOUTH FEB. 24

The advance guard of the Red Sox team will start for its Southern training camp at Hot Springs, Ark., about February 24. This party will include Manager Carrigan, Captain Heinie Wagner, Catchers Thomas and Cady, Outfielder Olaf Henriksen and all the young pitchers.

These plans were mapped out by Manager Carrigan, who made a flying visit from his camp in the Maine woods. Carrigan is in the best of health and incidentally is jubilant over the prospects for coming season.

"I am going to start for the Arkansas health resort about February 24," said Bill, "and intend to take all the new pitchers with me. Besides will get rookie twirlers, Captain Heinie Wagner, Catchers Thomas and Cady and Outfielder Olaf Henriksen will accompany me to aid in looking over promising recruits.

"I will work the youngsters slowly in order that they may get into shape gradually. I don't intend to have any of the players indulge in any hard, strenuous baseball before the opening of the regular training season. It is my idea to have only one workout a day, and to devote the afternoons to long hikes over the Ozarks. When the regulars arrive then the real work of getting into shape will begin.

"Last season when we left the Springs the boys were in too good a shape. This year we have twelve exhibition games to play before the opening of the season, and at the close of these games I expect the boys to be in the best condition, preparatory to getting away to a good start. I will not lay down any training rules. I will leave the conditioning of the players to themselves. Of course I will tell them what I expect of them; but it will be a request, not a demand. In this way I expect better results."

Boston College Plans Big Schoolboy Meet

The Boston College Athletic Association announces a big interscholastic meet at the High School building, February 21. The meet will be open to all High School athletes, and will incidentally give the crack Boston College prep. squad an opportunity of showing its prowess in competition with the star school boy runners of Boston. Coach Arthur Duffy and Manager Murray are in charge of the arrangements, and entries may be sent to them or to Graduate Manager Irving J. Heath of the college department.

Griffith and Strand Make 18 Braves

The signed contracts of Outfielder Tom Griffith and Pitcher Paul Strand have been received at the Boston National League headquarters. To date a total of thirteen players have signed or accepted terms with the Braves. One outfielder, Ewilling, is still to be heard from. The Federal League has made this youngster an offer, but whether or not he has accepted cannot be definitely learned.

Jimmy Bannon Comes to Aid of Ganzel

Another old-time ball player has come to the front for toe Charley Ganzel fund. A letter enclosing a check for $10 has been received from James H. Bannon of Rochester, N. H. This is Jimmy Bannon, the outfielder of the Boston National League Club. The fund has now reached $1,121.91.

School Notes

Although the Volkmann School track team was easily defeated by the Huntington School five, some fine performances by the Volkmann boxers, which speaks very well for the coaching of Ted Coulter, has brought out much favorable comment.

Coach Foster had but two men competing in the events. Captain Billy Lawrence the all-round star, and Jones in the 40-yard and 300-yard dash. Jones won the high jump and hurdles and Wetzell, are all fine all-round athletes.

The jumping of Henry Allen, Jr., of Volkmann School was the feature of the meet. Allen surpassed even the star of the Huntington five, defeating Taylor of Huntington, who was a strong favorite. The improvement under Holy Keeler's coaching shown by Allen is wonderful.

The meeting of Jim Knowles of the Volkmann team in the 600-yard event upset all predictions. Knowles, of Huntington was a big favorite for this event and also holder of the record. Knowles not only won but broke the track record by two seconds, bringing the mark down to 1:16.

* * *

The Malden High hockey team was forced to make many shifts in the lineup against Medford High and as a result only managed to eke out a victory, 2 to 1. Fraser and Dugan of the team are down in studies.

* * *

The Medford High relay team will be selected from Ed Mitchell, Sidney Hollis, Captain Ingham, Jim Campbell and Ted Thomas. The latter has entered the winged foot for the Technical at the Coach Artillery games Saturday evening.

"Trek" Twitchell has been elected captain of the Malden High School basketball team for 1914. Filling the berth left vacant by the graduation of Paul Barker, who left school to enter professional basketball. Twitchell is a guard.

Manager Cunningham of the Medford High School track team today announced the following schedule: January 31, Coach Artillery meet; January 31, triangular meet with Brookline and Newton at English High; February 7, Boston College High meet; February 13, Boston College High meet; February 28, B. A. A. schoolboy meet.

Cottage Park Y. C. Re-elects Bloomfield

At the annual meeting of the Cottage Park Yacht Club, Harry Bloomfield was re-elected commodore for the ensuing year. Other officers elected were:

Horace A. Magee, secretary; Joseph F. Mosher, vice commodore; Harry W. Aitken, treasurer; Frederick W. Woodcock and A. Perry Turner, trustees for two years; Charles W. Berry and Walter B. Wallis, auditing committee; William C. George, Carl J. Hodge and Charles J. Davis, entertainment committee. The regatta committee will consist of Paul Sears, Walter Albertson, Henry F. Hairston, Walter Whetmore and Loring A. Cogswell.

Tufts Will Run B. C. Relay at I.-A. Games

Graduate Manager Irving J. Heath and Manager "Bill" Desmond of the Tufts College track squad today announced that the B. C. relay team will try conclusions with the fast Tufts College quartet at the Irish-American games in January. The race is another step in the athletic relations between the Chestnut Hill and the Medford collegians.

The respective managements plan to engage in all the major sports, and next year will undoubtedly see keen rivalry between both teams.

Hugh Bedient Passes Up Flattering Offer

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 22.—Although he had received a flattering financial offer from the Buffalo Federal League baseball club, Hugh Bedient today announced his decision to sign up again with the Boston American League team.

ORGANIZED BALL MAY BRING SUIT OVER JUMPERS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 22.—Chairman August Herrman of the National Baseball Commission, in commenting on the telegram sent by President Gilmore of the Federal League to President Baker of the Philadelphia National League team, warning them against signing up Killifer and Brennan, who have Federal League contracts, said today:

Mr. Gilmore, the Federal League and the general baseball public can rest assured that organized baseball, as well as the Federal League, will protect its contracts in and out of the civil courts. Organized baseball has always recognized contracts and will continue to do so, but when contracts held by the clubs of organized baseball are assailed by the Federal League or any one else that party or parties may expect organized baseball to make every endeavor to protect its contracts in and out of every civil court if necessary.

In so far as organized baseball is concerned there is no worry on our part on account of Mr. Gilmore or his associates. We realize that we may have certain contractual rights to our players and these rights we propose to protect at the proper time regardless of what the Federal League or any other league may say or do.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN BASEBALL ARE EXPECTED TODAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Further developments were looked for today in the war which the Federal League is waging against organized baseball with the "outlaw" plan to carry to the courts. It was said here this morning that some startling things would happen before the day was out.

The legality of the reserve clause in the contracts of National and American Leagues will be the point over which the battle will rage, but when or where the contest will start was not made public. After delivering a challenge to organized ball, declaring the Federal League would "protect" its players and their contracts, President Gilmore of the new organization disappeared, and therefore definite plans for the conflict have not become generally known.

Harvard to Select Short Distance Four

Harvard will select today a short-distance relay team to oppose the B. A. A. quartet in the Coast Artillery games Saturday. The four runners making the fastest time in the trials will be given the honor. Captain Bill Barron, Capper, Bingham, Biddle, Rollins and Eddie Mahan appear to have the best chance of the field.

Marty O'Toole Signs with the Pirates

Marty O'Toole, the South Framingham boy, for whom the Pirates paid $22,500 several years ago, has returned his signed contract for 1914 to the Pittsburgh club. O'Toole has had an up and down career since entering baseball, but feels confident that things will break better for him the coming season.

NEW DEWEY SQ. ALLEYS TO HOLD TOURNAMENT

The inauguration of the Dewey Square bowling alleys on next Monday will be the signal for the start of the first big candlepin tournament of the season. The management of the new alleys will give prizes to the value of $200 to the four amateur bowlers and four professional bowlers having the best scores for three strings in the final round, according to the announcement of Manager "Mert" Turner today. The prizes will be divided equally, $100 to amateurs and $100 to professionals.

Beginning next Monday the tournament will run two weeks. It will be open to all. There is only one condition governing the contest, i. e., the competitor must notify the manager before he rolls, what class he intends to enter, whether amateur or professional. In order to qualify, the bowler must roll three consecutive strings, which he can do anytime during the two weeks of the qualification round. At the end of the two weeks the twelve amateurs and twelve professionals having the highest three consecutive strings will be eligible for the final round which will be held on Monday, February 9.

One whole floor will be devoted to the tournament finals. The amateurs will occupy three alleys and the professionals will have the other three. The four having the best total for three strings in each class will be the prize winners.

The new alleys, twelve in number, are now nearing completion. Bowling experts who have visited them say that they are the acme of perfection. Manager Turner, who is well known to local bowling followers, is having no stone unturned in order to make the tournament a success.

New Bedford Soccer Team in Cup Contest

The New Bedford soccer football eleven, champions of New England, will play the West Philadelphia eleven in Whalstown Saturday. The game is one of the U. S. F. A. cup competition contests, both teams winning their way through the first two rounds. Neither team has been beaten this season. The winner will go into the fourth round of the competition with a good chance of going into the finals, as the two elevens are recognized as being as strong as any of the surviving.

Fred Houghton, president of the Northern Massachusetts and New Hampshire State Association, will referee the game.

N. & G. School Nine Has Hard Schedule

In spite of the fact that only three veterans are available, Noble & Greenough School is looking forth to a successful baseball season. The schedule which follows is one of the best arranged for the private school:

April 11, Groton at Groton; April 18, Andover at Andover; April 25, Mar-blehead at Marblehead; April 29, Newport, R. I.; May 2, Groton (place unsettled); May 9, Andover at Noble & Greenough; May 16, Hackley Latin (place unsettled); May 19, Portsmouth Priory at Noble & Greenough; May 23, Milton at Milton; May 25, Volkmann (place unsettled).

BOWLING FACTS AND COMMENT

Paul Poehler, the Chauncy anchorman, led the City League bowlers in last week's play, and incidentally added a few points to his ever-increasing total of 2,000 pins. He had a three-string total of 368.

The seven Boston pin tournaments opened with light scoring. Apparently the change from the 10c to the small plan had a bad effect on the lads.

Hunnewell and North Gate will roll their first match of the Newton series tonight.

Lewis of the Oriental team was responsible for the only 300 game in the A. B. U. duck pin series. Lewis ran away with the second string, rolling a total of 348, both of his other strings were better than 100 also.

"Dutch" Pagle and Hadley of the Vulcan team were the only other bowlers to top the 300 mark.

Three members of the Albion team produced the best score of the week in the Knights of Columbus league, when they bowled the maples for a three-string total of 818.

Three pins gave Hunnewell the runner-up position in the Newton duck pin series.

George McConville, the former champion of Maine, is now connected with the Union Square alleys, Somerville, and feels little time for active competition.

Cambridge is first in the Royal Arcanum league, but its lead is by no means a comfortable one.

A single point separates Columbia and St. Alphonsus, the leading league teams in the A. B. U. Columbia, taking the points at a pinch, the latter driven fiends in the organization are very evenly matched.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS By A. H. C. Mitchell

HUB PLAYERS ARE NOT TAKING "FEDS" SERIOUSLY.

As the days pass the conviction grows that the Feds will not be able to grab off any of the players under reserve to the six Boston clubs. Besides the decided chance they take in jumping to the "outlaw" organization—that feeling that there will be a grand smash-up and they will be left high and dry as far as the baseball profession is concerned—the Boston players know full well that Boston is a mighty good town to play ball in.

It may be true that the Feds have offered some of our players more money than they have been getting, but most of our players realize that there are other things besides "more money." While it is true that under the system of organized ball a player may be sold or traded to another club at a moment's notice, the players on the two Boston teams seem quite willing to take their chance of staying right here in Boston.

CERTAINLY the owners of the two clubs have no feeling of uneasiness over the situation. There will doubtless be the usual number of "holdouts." There are holdouts every Winter whether there is war or peace. One or two of the Red Sox are hard men to sign every year. Later their names may develop. To their arguments for more money they will be able to add the Federal League argument, which will, of course, make it harder for the club owner.

But, all things considered, neither of the two Boston clubs should have any great trouble in signing the entire team.

BASEBALL WAR IS A "FINNEGAN" AFFAIR.

THE "war" is getting to be somewhat of an "on again, off again Finnegan" affair. One day the big leaguers seem to have the call on the Feds and the next day the Feds come back strong. Judging by the men they have signed, however, the Feds are not making rapid progress.

It is true that Russell Ford has jumped, but Ford was a frost on the Yanks last season. He was drawing upward of $5,000 for his work under Chance and the indications were that he will be a cut in wages. He took time by the forelock and lined up with the Feds for big money, presumably. If he does not do better work for the Feds than he did for the Yanks last year the Feds will be stung.

WILLETS, of the Tigers, is another who seemed to be going back fast. He, too, probably landed a fat piece of coin for signing a Fed contract.

It must be acknowledged that the Feds are game. They are putting up the money for players. As a matter of fact they have to.

WONDER how our old friend Doc Gessler will make out as a manager. When he played ball in the major leagues he was a pretty hard man to manage. He was quite fond of late hours and the things that usually go with late hours and he was not always in condition to play ball.

ONE thing is sure. If the Feds do really get under way next season there will be more fun than has been seen in baseball for many a day. There is bound to be all kinds of comedy, and it is believed the Feds will be the ones to furnish the amusement.

ALVA RICHARDS TO COMPETE IN UNICORN GAMES

Alva W. Richards of Brigham Young's University, Salt Lake City, and the winner of the high jump at the Olympic games in Stockholm, Sweden, in 1912, will compete in the high jump at the big B. A. A. indoor meet in Mechanics building next month. Richards saved the day for Uncle Sam in the Olympic games when George Horine, the California phenom, failed to live up to his reputation.

Richards was given a special invitation to perform here, as Boston track lovers are anxious to see him in competition against Harry Barwise of the B. A. A. Barwise is remarkable jumper, and believes he is Richards' master.

Richards and Barwise met in the national championships in Chicago last Summer, and the Westerner won, after a spirited tussle. Barwise, however, believes he will be able to "come back" at the Unicorn meet.

Bostonians are anxious to see Richards in action. Columns have been written about his feats, but few people in this section of the country have ever seen him compete. Richards is a tall, supple-limbed young man, and very awkward, but he manages to clear the most amazing heights.

J. Oliver Johnstone of the B. A. A. will also probably oppose Richards. Johnstone had a good performance, and should give an excellent account of himself.

Ouimet Going South Today for Practice

Francis Ouimet of Brookline, the national open golf champion, will leave today for Pinehurst, N. C., where he will spend a week in practice in order to get his hand in the game again before he leaves for his home early in the Spring. Paul Tewksbury and John McLeod of the Woodland club, teammates of Ouimet, will accompany the champion to Pinehurst, but after a few days at the New England links they will go to Augusta, Ga.

The four men, making the fastest time will be selected to oppose the Massachusetts Aggies' team in the Coast Artillery games. GOTCH SAYS HE WILL NOT MEET FOREIGN STARS

By JACK CONWAY.

FRANK GOTCH, the world's greatest heavyweight wrestler, declares that he intends to remain retired in a statement issued at his home in Humboldt, Ia., today. Gotch declared:

"I am through with the wrestling game. The promoters are trying to get me to enter active competition again and every little while a story is published that I am going to get back in the game but I have retired and shall remain in retirement.

"They tell me the public wants me to meet Mamutoff, Zbyszko, Aberg, Pritenacy and some of the other Europeans. That may be so but I think I have done my part in the game.

"If I were to defend my title, it would mean a great deal of hard training and even though I know that I could enter the ring and make $50,000 or more in a few months I will not do so. My business is what I am building up for the future, and I have all I can do to make it a success."

IF GOTCH remains firm in his determination to keep in private life, the wrestling game will lose one of its greatest exponents. Gotch first started wrestling in 1889, twenty-five years ago, and since that time has engaged in hundreds of battles and has won most of them.

The leading European wrestlers have been easy for the Iowa farmer. His great strength and knowledge of the fine points of the wrestling game combined with the agility of a panther have enabled him to vanquish some of the classiest wrestlers that have been developed during the past score of years.

GOTCH finally fought himself out of a job. There was nobody left for him to conquer, and he was virtually forced to retire. If Gotch had remained in the ring, he would no doubt have made a great deal of money. The "fans" would have refused to put out in order to see him perform as they would have rightfully declared that there was not a wrestler in the world who was in Gotch's class.

ZBYSZKO is one of Gotch's most persistent challengers, but I do not believe that Gotch would experience much trouble in pinning the Pole's shoulders to the canvas even though he was near the best of condition. Zbyszko is a big, powerful fellow but that is all. He thinks slowly and his movements are awkward.

Zbyszko proved an easy victim for Gotch in 1916. The champion downed the Pole for the first fall in 6 minutes, seconds while the second fall was gained in 27m. 36s.

GOTCH has made a fortune wrestling and has saved most of it. He can afford to devote the rest of his life to his private business. The Humboldt man is well educated and, unlike some of the foreign grapplers who visits our shores, there is not any danger of the champion becoming a victim of "sure thing" men and shysters with "get rich" schemes.

A GUARDIAN should be appointed to care for Willie Ritchie so that he will not injure himself between now and 4 when he is scheduled to meet Tommy Murphy in a bout for the world's lightweight championship. Murphy has been signed to meet Ritchie almost a dozen times but the champion has been obliged to call off each encounter for some reason or other.

IF Ritchie was not a great little fighter, we would say that he was attempting to avoid clashing with the New York veteran. But as Ritchie has proved himself to be a real champion and he should be able to vanquish Murphy easily, we are forced to believe him when he asserts that he is the most unfortunate boxer in the world, and that he is susceptible to all kinds of injuries.

IF GILBERT GALLANT, the rugged little Chelsea lightweight, wins from Frankie Burns of California in their twenty-round bout in San Francisco on January 26, he will start after a match with one of the leading men in the lightweight division.

COAST "fans" are anxious to see Gallant in action, as they were surprised when he defeated "One Round" Hogan in Salt Lake City. Hogan was a 10 to 8 favorite in the betting over Gallant, but Alex McLeenan's pledge beat him in almost every round.

MUTT NEVER WOULD TAKE THE WORST OF ANYTHING By "BUD" FISHER

TOMMY BURNS GOING TO TRY TO 'COME BACK'

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 22—Inconsistency by name is Tommy Burns. When G. B. Smith downed A. Pelky, with a hurtling right-hander, in 17 R. was no more about it that he offered to fight Smith himself.

A day or two later Tommy thought better of it, one of the things which influenced him being that at present he bears about as much resemblance in conformation to the Burns who downed "Bombay" Bill Squires as Farmer John L. Sullivan does to the "Boston Strong Boy" of the early eighties.

Now Tommy is at it again. The lure of the ring is strong upon him and he is going to try himself out with one "Battling" Brant at Taft, on January 26.

If the result of the Brant affair warrants it, Tommy will challenge the world. Gunboat Smith preferred, and bet from five to ten thousand dollars on himself.

Tommy would not dare to talk like that around New York where there is a commission which sees to it that the former heroes of the pugilistic profession do not inflict themselves on the public. But maybe Tommy is merely having his little joke. Going after a fellow named Brant smacks of a wild goose chase.

Pelky and Kid Kenneth, the Oilbelt Hope, are to box at Taft on January 24, and Burns sends word that Pelky is in better shape than when he met Smith. According to Burns, Pelky's muscles are looser, and his hitting ability greater.

Kenneth is going right along with his training, and does not appear to scent disaster. He is buoyed up by the manager told him. The latter, it seems, gumshoed into San Francisco and watched the Pelky-Gunboat contest. When he returned to the derrick region he whispered to Kenneth, "You can lick the both of them."

Athletic Notes

Harry Harmise of the B. A. A. will be seen a lot in the high hoop at the Arlington Gymnasia. Harmise is rated by some of the best high jumpers in the east.

J. P. Camp is one young man who is sure to get there. Running consistently, Camp is a strong runner and first attracted attention at the Olympic trials in the Harvard Stadium.

Harry Smith, the great distance runner of the Providence A. A., New York, will be seen in togs all his own at the B. A. games this year, as he will be opposed by S. Applebaum of Yonkers, N. Y., who recently defeated the Paulist A. C. flyer.

Oscar Hedlund says he will be at his best in the Arlington mile games Saturday night if the little Lithuanian runner shows as well as he did last year, he will not experience any difficulty in finishing first in the one-mile handicap.

W. H. Walling, the star Boston College high jumper, has entered in the Coast Artillery meet.

The Harvard freshmen relay team will meet Boston College High at the Arlington mat. The Crimson is represented by a weedy quartet of runners and should be easy.

A large number of entries is being received for the first-American A. A. U. meet, which will be held at Mechanics Building next month. Besides the university, the New England college, club and school athletes will compete.

RINGSIDE'S Boxing Chatter

AL SHUBERT, the New Bedford bantamweight, has made a favorite for his twelve-round bout with Joe Budreau of Medford, which will take place before the Unity Cycle Club in Lawrence tonight. The men have agreed to make 120 pounds ringside. Shubert recently won from Kid Thomas in Lawrence, and as a result is a big favorite in that city.

A GOOD preliminary card has been arranged. "Young" Britt, who hails from New Bedford, will clash with Tommy Carson of Lawrence in the semi-final match, while there will be a six-round preliminary between Tony Lorenzo of Boston and "Young" Brogna of Lawrence.

A NEW athletic club has been established in Cambridge. It will be known as the University Athletic Club, and Larry Bugnolia, the well-known Marathon runner and oarsman, is the moving spirit of the organization. He is being backed by some of the leading business men in Cambridge.

THE new club has arranged to hold an amateur boxing tournament in Cypress Hall on Tuesday evening, February 6. Contests are to be fought at 108, 120 and 140 pounds. Entries will close on February 3, with Johnny Brassill, No. 40 Prospect street.

THE Cambridge club has not yet secured permanent quarters, but will do so within a few days. There is plenty of room in Greater Boston for more athletic clubs properly conducted.

ARTHUR PELKY, the giant Chicopee heavyweight who was knocked out by "Gunboat" Smith on the Coast, New Year's Day, will start a "come back" campaign when he meets one "Kid" Kenneth—whoever he is in a twenty-round bout in Taft, California, Saturday.

KENNETH was unknown until he was matched with Pelky. He probably is some burly miner or lumberman who is as strong as an ox, but who knows little about the ring game. Pelky is a dub, but nevertheless should win from Kenneth.

JOE MORGAN, the Manchester, N. H. bantamweight, expects to make a good showing when he meets Al Shubert in Manchester, N. H., tomorrow night. If Shubert is not hurt in his bout with Joe Budreau this evening, he should dispose of Morgan.

"YOUNG" COOPER a Boston boxer, takes his life in hand, as it were, and asserts that he would like to meet any bantamweight boxer in New England. Cooper is managed by Joe Putnam. As long as he has a manager, I suppose he will soon be claiming some kind of a title.

When the Boston Athletic Association seven and the Wanderers' Hockey Club of New York clash at the Arena tonight, the local "fans" will witness one of the hardest-fought and most thrilling battles of the season.

The Wanderers are a team that got out for a victory from the first face-off and have always made things very interesting for their opponents in every game they have entered, in fact so strenuously have some of the Wanderers been that they have drawn suspension for their rough work.

Claffy and Kinsella are said to be under a ban in New York, but both of these men will play here tonight and they are expected to keep the B. A. A. boys very busy.

Paton and Smith, the two centre ice men of the Wanderers, are both exceptionally clever players and are a great scoring combination. Smith and Paton scored all the goals made against the Pilgrim A. A., the former raging the puck three times, while Paton drove in the other two counts.

The B. A. A. boys have been practicing very hard and earnestly for this game, realizing that they have a worthy opponent in the Wanderers and are out for a victory over the team which defeated the Cleveland Hockey Club will place the local seven very near the top of the list of amateur sevens in this country.

Internationals Get Chance to Reconsider

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—President Barrow of the International League stated today that the few players of the league who have jumped to the Federal League will have until the opening of the season to reconsider their action. After that date they will be eliminated as far as the International League is concerned.

Ed Sweeney Will Stick to Yankees

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—Information came from Ban Johnson, president of the American League, that Edward Sweeney, the New York American league catcher, had received an offer from his club which probably would result in his remaining with the Yankees, despite a good proposition from the Federals.

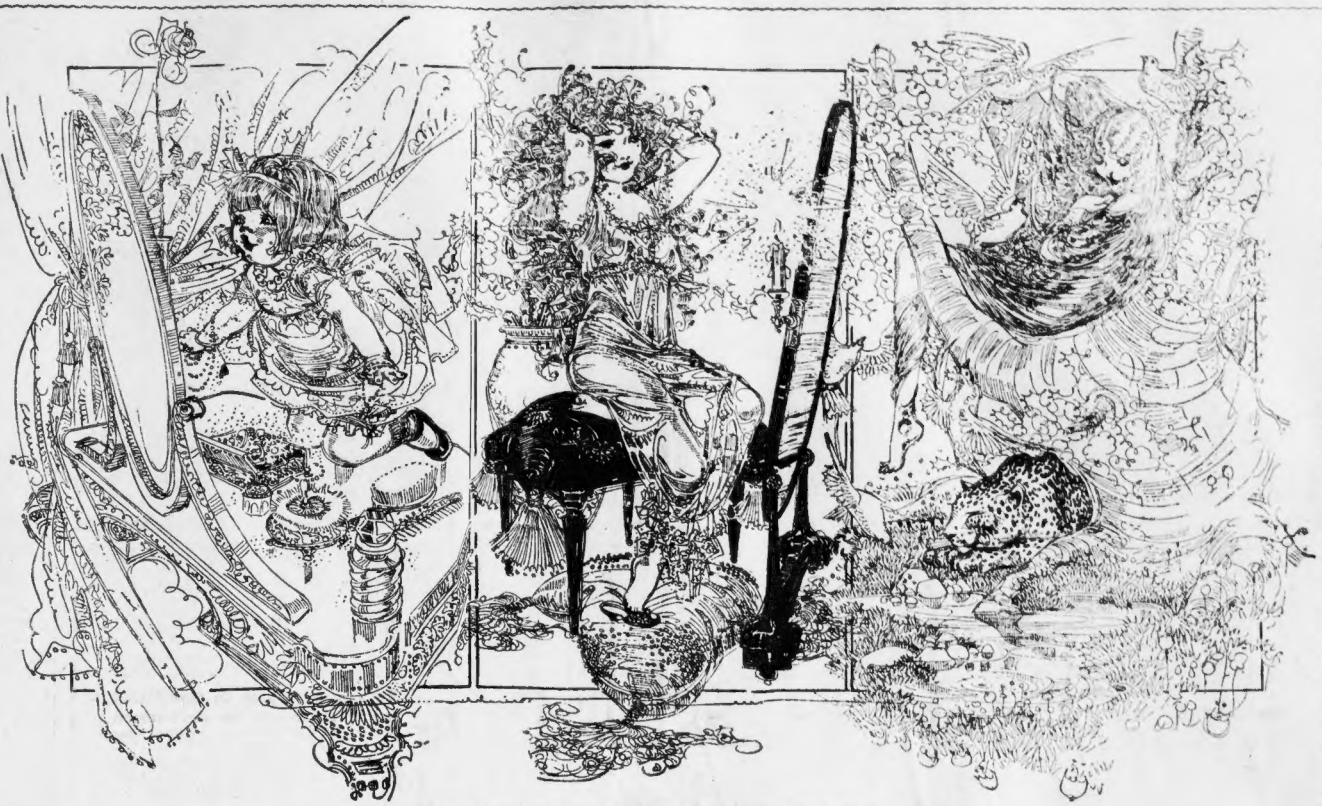
Our Mother Eve

A Petal from the First Flower

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service

By NELL BRINKLEY



I came on a darling little Kid I know the other day, crouching on her plump little knees on the slippery top of her mother's dressing table, among the sparkling crystal bottles of orange oil and beautiful golden and violet water, gazing raptly into the mirror at her own little self. She had been to the maid's room and decorated her thin little neck with that hard-working young person's amber beads, and they hung like a ball and chain around a flower stem—but they glowed like anything, and that was all she cared! Here in her mother's jewelry box she was rioting, her little fists full of gold beads and things that glittered and winked as the sun struck them full. And the cynic smiled triumphantly.

"Here is our ancient Mother Eve. Always hanging herself with things and adorning her own image! Eve in the tree-nest, with her pet leopard dozing at its foot, wrapped her garment of hair about her and found herself in the pool below. This baby's mother, another Eve, is right now, I'll wager, perched before her biggest, clearest mirror, putting up her hair and smiling at her pretty face looking back. Women are vanity! From the feminine stem up. And from the lovely Eve down!"

And yet, do you know—I stood once for twenty minutes close by a great, fascinating, smooth plate-glass window. And there never passed one single man who did not take a big survey or a little peek at himself as he swung by. And about one Mother Eve to his five did! What did that mean, Cynic?—NELL BRINKLEY.

As a Change

"What I want," said the theatrical manager, "is a genuine novelty."

"Something realistic?" asked the playwright.

"Yes; but I don't want any real pugilists, or real naval disasters, or real live stock, or real battles in it."

The playwright looked wearily thoughtful, and, after a pause, inquired. "How would it do to give the public something with real actors in it?"

Fat Is Ridiculous

CHAPTER XVII.

Continued

It was midnight when they got under way, and it was Harry who suggested they go a round-about route on their return—through Concord, Lincoln and Weston to Newton. The car worked well—sped on its way—whisked them through a sleeping town or two—and then as they left Concord on the road past Walden to Lincoln one of the cylinders began to skip a little. They mounted the long hill above Walden pond, and then caught through the trees the glint of the moon on Walden pond. Batchelder suddenly brought the machine to a stop:

"What do you say if we fix that cylinder here. You all go on down to the pond," he suggested. "I'll come down and get you as soon as she's working better. It will only take a minute."

Lucille and Enid looked at each other a little doubtfully—then assented. "You won't mind my leaving you alone, will you, Rob?" Enid demanded, as she followed the other two down the steep slope to the beach. Batchelder pretended indignation:

"Oh, go ahead—I don't mind," he replied gruffly—and they laughed back and left him there alone.

Through the belt of trees they came out upon the sand, bathed in moonlight that seemed to shimmer and weave about them like a silver mist. "You can almost feel it," Lucille whispered softly—holding out her hands as though she would gather the wondrous radiance to herself. Half around the shores of the Pond they could see, so bright it was. The mystery of the deep woods on every side made the three of them draw together a bit, as though they were afraid. They looked behind them at the trees through which they had come. Above, on the road, the car's lights glowed.

A CAREFUL OF VANDALS

It was Harper who summoned a laugh and the boisterous tone that accords with a "joy-ride." He refused to be awed by the beauty of the night—led the way to where the swimming raft was dragged up on shore. There was a diving stand at one end—a spring board at the other. The spring board ran almost the length of the raft. They climbed up on it and sat there, kicking their heels—their backs to the lake—defying the silent gloom of the woods about.

Once or twice Batchelder called down from the road above, and his voice was eerie and farseeing through the still night. They replied, with yodels, and trills, and whistles, and once Harper tried to imitate a screech owl—but his fellow school mates across the pond till Lucille clapped her hand over his mouth and cried: "Dick—don't make so much noise."

An automobile or two passed above them—late riders like themselves. To these parties they shrilled greetings, and got laughing response. Again at a booming roar from across the pond, they turned to see the sparkling engine and the trundling, gloomy hulk of a long freight train puffing up the hill to Lincoln, on its way to Boston. They watched the lighted caboose swing across their vista, and then out of sight into the woodland again. As it vanished, behind them came a sharp cry:

"Hey—you!" They whirled so swiftly as almost to fall from their seats.

But it was only Batchelder.

"What's the matter—scared?" he jeered. "She's all O. K. now. Wait till I get a taste of this"—he looked about the deep arena of the moonbathed pond, set in its rim of wooded slopes. "Then we'll be on our way."

He climbed up beside Enid, and the two couples drew apart a little from each other. Their voices fell to whispers.

Of a sudden, above them came an automobile's roar—and shrilling over even that noise the cries of a party of drunken "joy-riders." The four sitting there on the diving board watched in silence.

The car swung around the curve from Concord—then as it reached their own automobile, at the roadside, it stopped. The shouting voices suddenly were hushed. Instantly Batchelder and Harper leaped down and sprinted for the slope, yelling: "Hey—get out of that—get away from that car."

Before they had climbed a quarter of the way, the other automobile shot away with a departing chorus of taunts. They reached the level to see its tail lights disappear, far down the road. When the two girls, scrambling in fright at being left alone, came up beside them, they found Batchelder on his knees at one of the tires. It was ripped half open by a deep knife cut—the work of the vandal-spirit liquor had unloosed in those other "joy-riders." Batchelder was swearing under his breath, and Harper chorusing with him.

A sudden fright seized Enid at this new delay. "It's getting awful late, isn't it?" she whispered. Lucille was not worried, for she had left word she would stay with Enid over night. Batchelder grunted over his shoulder: "Shut up and tune hooter! I'll have to change the whole shebang. Half an hour's job."

A sudden fright seized Enid at this new delay. "It's getting awful late,

Why should the truth be hidden? Only those having something to hide can legitimately object to publicity of all pertinent facts.

Railroads are not subjects of any group of bankers. They are not the personal property of the officials. The directors do not own them—directors are the servants, or should be the servants, of stockholders.

Are not the real owners of America's railroads the thousands upon thousands of small investors, virtually the public, entitled to know what is being done with their money? Is it right that two or three gentlemen sitting on a finance committee or an executive committee should make bargains with themselves or with bankers closely allied with a railroad, AND DENY THE OWNERS OF THE MONEY ALL INFORMATION ON THE SUBJECT? To ask the question is to answer it.

In fairness to them, I should add, I understand influential banking firms I have named are not objecting to giving the Interstate Commerce Commission a full record of their dealings with roads whose affairs are under investigation. I believe I could go farther and say the bankers will welcome opportunity to disclose the details of certain financing about which there has been widespread criticism.

Morgan & Company transactions with the New Haven Railroad and with the New York Central, Speyer & Company relations with the St. Louis and San Francisco system, Kuhn, Loeb & Company dealings with the Harriman roads, all widely commented upon, what I am told, several conditions not exactly in accordance with much of the condemnatory allegations frequently made.

However, it will be wise not to pass judgment in advance, but to await publication of the official figures.

I have never been able to understand why the railroads and their bankers should take the attitude that railroad security holders had no business to ask a single question about even the most important deals involving scores of millions. I recall asking Charles Perkins a simple question about New York Central when he was a member of the Morgan firm and he replied most inquiringly—although it is pleasant to be able to record that since he left the influence of the Morgan House he has developed better manners and a greater respect for the public virtues that do not appear to thrive in the Morgan atmosphere.

Perhaps now that all classes of bankers are to be put under proper governmental supervision it will be possible to tear aside the veil of secrecy that has been so anxiously wrapped round railroad-banking dealings.

* * *

Publicity will not hurt honest banking. It will inspire confidence in security offerings. It will remove the very general suspicion that is palpably harbored against bankers of great power. It will benefit the railroads by clearing them of the charge that they are in unholy league with certain dominating and domineering bankers.

* * *

May I suggest to the Interstate Commerce Commission that it take steps by-and-by to lay before the public the information it is gathering from railroads upon this vital subject—"inside" banking.

* * *

If the truth hurts, let it hurt. If millions have been made question-

SHOW THIS BOOK TO YOUR FRIENDS

Let Them Know About This Great Opportunity Offered to Our Readers.

Those who have already secured their Panama books offered by the Boston AMERICAN should show them to their friends. Never before in the history of newspaper and book publishing has such an offer been made. The book is a work of art. It is called "Panama and the Canal in Picture and Prose," and is written by Willis J. Abbot, who is the author of many books of history and travel. This book is beautifully bound in tropical red vellum cloth, is twice as large as the usual size volume and contains more than six hundred rare illustrations, many of which are reproduced from water color studies to full page size.

Your friends would indeed be proud to possess such a volume, and when it is made known to them that they can get it from the AMERICAN for six certificates and the small expense of distribution they will quickly take advantage of the opportunity. At the present time it behooves all progressive people to learn all they can of this mighty achievement, for the great Canal will soon become a working factor among all the nations of the earth.

In another column of this issue is printed a Panama Certificate. Six of these certificates and expense amount shown therein will put you in possession of this $4 volume without further cost. Clip that certificate today and present it at any of the distributing points named therein.

Are You Puzzled?

WRITE TO AMERICAN

If you don't understand just how the new law affects you personally, and if there is any peculiar condition that makes your individual case different from others, write a clear, compact question about it and the desired information will be given if possible in next Sunday's AMERICAN.

ably, let those who have become rich by such means and methods be held up to the scorn they deserve.

If a starving beggar puts his hands in a man's pocket and steals a dollar he is promptly and unceremoniously sent to prison. If a wealthy banker puts his hand in a railroad's treasury and loots it of a million dollars, why should he not suffer a similar fate?

* * *

One banker yesterday told me of a certain railroad-banking deflation that he called "nothing short of susve robbery." Such incidents have been all too common in the past.

* * *

Let in the light of publicity on past deals, have the Interstate Commerce Commission supervise all railroad security issues in the future, and give an Interstate Trade Commission similar power over industrial offerings, and we will enter a cleaner era.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong this afternoon, resuming on almost the same level as was reached during the first hour. The largest advances were scored by specialties, but the regular speculative favorites made gains as a rule. Early in the afternoon in New York advances included Southern Pacific ⅝, Missouri Pacific ⅝, Reading 1, American Telephone ⅝, Steel ⅝, Amalgamated ⅝, Atchison ⅝, Union Pacific ⅝ and Texas Co. 4. Among recessions were Canadian Pacific ⅝, Lehigh Valley ⅝ and American Can ⅞.

Prices were then irregular in Boston. New Haven was off ⅝, Boston & Maine ½ and Fruit ¼. Elevated was up ⅝, Edison ½ and American Telephone ⅛. Mines to show gains included Calumet & Arizona ⅝, Granby ⅝, North Butte ¼ and Mohawk 1.

NEW YORK OPENED FIRM.

The New York market was firm at the start and opening prices ruled higher. Changes were small then but significant in view of the recent heavy selling for profits. Americans had been irregular earlier in London, but strength on this side soon sent them higher on the other. Advances by industrials were among the encouraging signs. In New York there were big three-hour gains on a number, including Goodrich common and American Agricultural Chemical. A large trade increase is expected for the latter because of an improvement of credit facilities for farmers under the currency act. International Harvester scored a notable rise for the same reason. As regards Goodrich, more demand for tires is promised. Texas Co. was up all issue to 5 points in the second hour, gaining 4 points to 149.

SPECULATIVE LEADERS STEADY.

While a number of industrial specialties were reaching higher levels than they have attained in months, the usual market leaders did not fluctuate much. But they averaged higher, a shade higher, something which was disconcerting to bear interests. The latter searched the list for weak spots in vain all the morning. Absorption met every offset selling pressure.

In trading circles it was said that the uplift was chiefly due to outside influences and not to so-called large intervals. In some quarters it was thought that the latter are much surprised at the course the market has taken. Manipulation not credited with having much part in the recent rise. Business interests are inclined to view the encouraging as a marked improvement in general trade within a few months.

SOME BULL FACTORS.

Among bull factors were the reductions in minimum discount rates by the Bank of England and the bank of Germany. Both were expected, but for all that they had value as indicating a much better monetary situation in Europe. Prompt action by the Bank of France may be taken before long. Commerce has contracted as much abroad as in this country, which has contributed largely to its making money elsewhere. Great sums, however, must be raised by foreign governments and this should be a check some time upon flooding of corporation issues. The tremendous over-subscription for the $100,000,000 issue of New York State bonds indicated that monetary conditions in this country are better than in any year. The morning call rate in New York was as low at 1¾ per cent. This helped speculation. Share transactions during the first hour amounted to nearly 200,000.

IRREGULARITY.

Profit taking had more effect in Boston than in New York during the morning, although the local market improved on the whole here. It was strong at the opening and became broader than has been seen for months. Most changes were fractional, but a few issues made good gains, including Lake, Mayflower, Agricultural Chemical, Allouez and American Telephone. Also Monday Elevated was higher and Boston & Maine lower, while New Haven, as was the case in New York, had sustained a loss.

Local copper was mixed. There were gains at that time for Calumet & Arizona, Granby, Greene-Cananea, Isle Royale, Mohawk, Nevada Consolidated, Old Colony, Old Dominion, Ray Consolidated, Superior, U. S. Smelting, Rex Consolidated and Superior. Those which had receded included Centennial, Copper Range, Franklin and North Butte.

It is said that most recent purchases of metal have been for export and that domestic consumers are still contracting for as little as possible.

BANK OF ENGLAND RATE.

The Bank of England has reduced its minimum rate of discount from 4½ to 4 per cent., and it is expected that it will soon be further lowered. Its proportions of reserve to liabilities is now 51.5 per cent., compared with 55.58 last week and 53.65 for the corresponding week last year. Gold is arriving in the South African mining region

NEW 'COME AND KILL MOTHER' NOTES SHOWN

GALESBURG, Ill., Jan. 22.—Betrayal of Julia Flake, the fifteen-year-old author of the "come-over-and-kill-mother" letters, was one reason why Robert Higgins married Mrs. Flake, mother of the girl, whose murder he charged against him, according to letters produced today by relatives of the slain woman.

The new letters were produced by a sister of the murdered wife after Higgins repudiated his confession that he and the girl conspired and killed the wife and mother because they loved each other. Soon after Higgins married Mrs. Flake, the girl wrote to her aunt:

"Higgins says he would not have married mama if it hadn't been for me and sister Julia? He said, 'Shoo me. Ma said, 'Why didn't you wait wouldn't have me.'"

Albert Higgins, father of the man accused of murdering his wife, said today that in addition to spending his fortune to save his son from the gallows, he will do everything he can to protect Julia Flake.

"It's a shame the way that poor girl has been treated," said Higgins with tears in his eyes. "She was not a wrong act in her life. She is the victim of the same plot that has snared my son."

Would Fine Persons for Tipping Waiter

In the Senate, the rules were suspended, on motion of Wells of Haverhill, to admit the petition of John S. Kemp to compel any guest or patron of a hotel, restaurant or buffet, who pays a tip to a waiter or employe for serving him, to pay a fine of from $10 to $50 for each offence.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 22.—Mrs. Kate Edwards, who has been in the Berks County jail for more than twelve years under sentence of death for the murder of her husband, will probably be set free by the State Board of Pardons. BOSTON AMERICAN 80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JANUARY 22, 1914.

Cardinal O'Connell's Great Sermon Clears the Atmosphere and Will Teach People of All Denominations to Think Right

Cardinal O'Connell last Sunday delivered a great sermon, the most important since he was invested with his present high title of prominence in the Catholic Church.

The sermon—a real classic—is so important that it will be published in its entirety in the Sunday AMERICAN, and we ask all our readers of every creed and faith—without prejudice—to read it and study it carefully.

Cardinal O'Connell points out in a fearless way some of the evil tendencies of the present time. He does this in strong and forceful language, yet so simple are his words that they cannot be mistaken or misunderstood.

While the sermon was delivered to a very large congregation of Catholics, it might have been delivered by any preacher of any other denomination in any other church in any other city in the United States. It touched both the shallows and the deeps in the many "isms" that are being exploited by well-meaning gentlemen who, if they know anything of the fundamentals of Christianity, carefully keep them hidden in their public discussions and papers.

The sermon reaches the heights of real evangelistic work by pointing out some of the facts that are so apparent and so obvious, but are most generally overlooked.

Some persons may disagree with the eminent head of the Catholic Church in New England in what he has to say about "Paganism," but a careful reading of the sermon makes it clear to any open-minded individual that the Cardinal does not oppose research into Biblical history, and that when a Biblical "fact" has been demonstrated TO BE A FACT it will eventually be accepted as such.

He urges strongly that men who profess superior mental ability have no right to take out the foundation stones of the Christian religion and substitute some new-fangled ideas of their own.

He points out that good women still exist, and that the Christian woman has been a good woman since the beginning, and will be such until the end of time. And that many misled women who revel in the foibles of the moment in dress, in dancing and in other frivolities—some of them of a questionable nature—are not the real "mothers in Israel" at all, and that those who err must be brought back into the church where they belong.

He also points out the responsibility of the churches in not attracting larger congregations of thoughtful men and women because many preachers are not leading in the right direction. It is very true, as the Cardinal says, that there should be no need for a Go-to-Church Day in Boston, or in any other city, if all the churches did their duty, their full duty, all the time.

Catholic churches are filled to overflowing at every service of the day on Sunday. Can this be said of other churches?

There are many half-filled church edifices in Boston, and in New England, and in the rest of the country as well. Why? Is it because, as Cardinal O'Connell intimates, that those responsible are not teaching the revealed religion, but are following along with the senseless chatter of the day, and are not convincing men and women that the cornerstone of Christianity is unshaken and unshakable?

Cardinal O'Connell has performed a great service to all the people by his straightforward, vigorous sermon, and it will be of the greatest influence, not only among the members of his own powerful church, but in other denominations as well, to make men and women THINK RIGHT.

FOR WHEN MEN AND WOMEN THINK RIGHT THEY ACT RIGHT!

The Cardinal's sermon may be briefly epitomized:

BACK TO THE TEN COMMANDMENTS!

Help the Nation That Bled for Humanity

On the other side of the world, across an ocean and a continent, a nation lies blackened and devastated by war. A small nation, yet 44,000 of her bravest men have been tumbled into the trenches dug for the dead, and 100,000 lie wounded and helpless in hospitals. A peace-loving nation, yet a nation that through the centuries has steadily resisted the aggression of the Mohammedan Turk, and now lies desolated because of its last stand against that hideously cruel invader.

That is Bulgaria. Its Queen and its people appeal to Americans for help, and the appeal must not be in vain.

Once more the unflinching courage of her people has saved Europe, the cradle of a large part of our American population. The resistance was successful, but it cost a fearful price. Farms are untilled because there are no men to till them. Cities have been laid waste and remain in ruins for want of labor and money.

Women and children are starving. The very soldiers who defended their homes from the Turks are dying from their wounds for lack of proper food and medical attendance. There are no growing crops on the farms; there is no trade in the cities. There is no commerce across the frontier. Until help comes the Bulgarian people must suffer. The wounds they have suffered will not heal of themselves.

The battles the Bulgarians have fought have been battles for Christianity—for the Cross against the Crescent.

Years will be required to renew the crops on the Bulgarian hills and valleys and to restore the herds to the pastures. Years must pass before the black trail of the Turk can be obliterated.

But money can alleviate present suffering and enable the suffering population to re-establish their prosperity. The appeal of their Queen ought to kindle in every American a desire to help. It will be carried through the country by the Hearst newspapers. It will be sounded from the pulpits of many churches. Let Americans respond as they always respond to a cry of distress that stirs their imaginations. Let not this nation, which single-handed has fought the cause of religious liberty, be left crushed and blasted because its people were brave enough to face destruction in the interest of all humanity.

The Twentieth Century Prophet

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

ONCE more I see with delight the holiday book shelves smiling with a fresh, new edition of Jules Verne's stories. I happen at this writing to be in France, where the popularity of the most inventive of story tellers establishes an exception to the rule about prophets in their own country.

The twentieth century is just catching up with Jules Verne, and it thrills through all its nerves at the spectacle of some of his dreams turning into realities.

So many of his breathlessly bold forecasts have proved veritable prophecies that one experiences a feeling of uncertainty and expectation in recalling those which have not yet come true. You feel that they, too, are eggs that may suddenly hatch out.

A marksman who hit an apparently unattainable target on many times as he did may not really have missed it when he seems to have done so. In the face of the mysterious and hitherto hidden powers of nature on which we today have begun to lay revealing and conquering hands, who can feel sure that Jules Verne's "Trip to the Moon and Journey Around It" is essentially any less likely to prove a dream fulfilled than was his "Journey Under the Sea," his "Balloon Trip Across Africa," his "Round the World in Eighty Days" or his "Travels with a Steam House?"

The difference between Jules Verne and other writers of extraordinary stories based on apparently impossible inventions is that he dreamed his dream and wrote his stories before the inventions had actually been made, while his followers and imitators write after the event, and simply enlarge upon what the world already knows. He alone among them all shows true original genius. He stands above them like Napoleon above his marshals.

Even yet, with all the credit that has been given him, Jules Verne has not had full justice. As a writer he possessed what Shakespeare lacked—invention—invention in the large, including scenes, incidents, atmosphere, everything. Shakespeare cribbed his plots and stories with hardly a single exception. He cribbed his incidents whenever he could. He cribbed, in many cases at least, the outlines and spirit of his characters. The whole secret of the irresistible power of Shakespeare over our minds lies in his matchless ability to say what he wished to say with a wealth and a fitness of verbal expression such as no other writer ever possessed.

Jules Verne invented a new world—the world of the ideal engineer, the world of scientific romance, and, wild and improbable as it appeared to most of his contemporaries, his vision was so true that within a few decades after he wrote we see that world unfolding before our eyes and a display of wonders some of which would have astonished even him. He had little of the Shakespearian gift of expression or of characterization, and his literary technique was so simple that the critics generally ignore him. But the scenes and the personages that he created do not grow dim with the passage of time.

He saw a future age as clearly as Walter Scott saw a past one, and made as vivid an image of it. Every great engineering triumph of the twentieth century smacks of Jules Verne, for every one of them has in it an element of apparent impossibility overcome. The fifty-story building is a Jules Verne story translated into steel and concrete. The Panama Canal is emphatically a Jules Verne achievement, and Colonel Goethals is one of his greatest characters sprung into real life.

Phileas Fogg and Captain Nemo are the typical heroes of this new age, which hardly waited for Jules Verne to be in the grave before its amazing dawn broke over the globe, in fulfilment of his prediction of a time when science should transfigure the earth, the air and the water. We can excuse a little literary imperfection in a genius which exhibited such prodigious originality and such boundless wealth of invention.

The Picture Girl

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

The newest style is the decoration of ladies' faces with deftly painted flowers and other decoration.
—News Item.

WHEN I first met my Antoinette she wore upon her brow
Amid a scene of sylvan green the portrait of a cow.
A Shropshire sheep lay fast asleep beside her dainty nose,
And on each cheek a perker sleek was wooing sweet repose.
A restful face whose simple grace and mild bucolic charm
Recalled the days of golden Mays upon the dear old farm.

But fashions fade; and soon the maid whose rustic countenance
Breathed forth the spell of bosky dell and countryside romance
Had rearranged her face, and changed the rural restful greens
To reds and blues and other hues of vivid racing scenes.
From ear to ear in mad career brave hunters galloped free.
It lent her face a lively grace that fascinated me.

And so each year, lest she appear passe and antiquated,
My Antoinette would go and get her face redecorated.
A storm at sea sometimes would be her trimming for a while—
A sinking ship above her lip, a lighthouse on her smile.
Then still-life groups, with things for soups, like carrots, beans and beets,
Would grace her cheeks with onions, leeks and ruddy fresh-cut meats.

But now no more can I adore this idol of my earlier passion,
For when she fell beneath the spell of the last syllable in fashion
And rimmed her eyes, rhomboidal-wise, with purple cubes and yellow squares,
Supposed to be the effigy of undraped persons bound downstairs,
The gentle lure her garniture had held for me turned swiftly bitter.
I could not dope her face nor hope to know its meaning—so I quit her.

The Call

By CONSTANCE CLARKE

TIME was when we were friends, the wind and I, when down the street,
Whistling in measures mystical, he dogged my hurrying feet.
He breathed his love songs in my ear, and in his quickening breath,
That woke my soul to music, was the easeful call of death.

But now he thunders in a voice that reeks of naught but pain,
He clamors for admittance and his breath is choked with rain.
And I, a coward, draw back afraid to battle with the strife,
Because the wind would woo me with the harsher call of life.

Modern Dances—They Are Fads, to Fill Up the Empty Time and Minds of Their Devotees.

By DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST.

THE estimate that one will pass on the troops of men and women with whom, at present, ballroom gymnastics constitute the sum and substance of life will depend on what one considers to be the real future of the delirium.

Even to call it delirium may be a misuse of terms, for it would imply a degree of mental infatuation approaching to lunacy, and we should be averse to supposing that these stalwart men and beautiful women are all of them candidates for the madhouse. Such a possibility cannot be quietly contemplated.

A broad view of the entire situation leads rather to the conviction that the phenomenon which we are now considering is due not so much to a disordered mind as to emptiness of mind, so that what is now going on is to be explained on the familiar principle that nature abhors a vacuum, and that these people are throwing themselves into these fantastic gamboling in order to satisfy an aching void.

The object is to get rid of the emptiness, and when that is the object it does not make so much difference what it is filled in with. They are in this respect like certain fish that always go through the water with their mouths open, everything being grist that comes to their mill.

This acquits our gentlemen and lady friends of insanity, even if it does carry with it a suggestion of intellectual imbecility. Some perhaps would prefer one and some the other. This explanation is suggested by the fact that what we are now witnessing is nothing new so far as the essential features of the case are concerned.

Some years ago it was bicycling. Then, as now, it was the nether extremities that were worked in compensation for the inaction of the cerebral extremity.

But people are, by the kind providence of God, so constituted as to be unable for long to forget their brains, even if they make no practical use of them; and so, after a couple of years, the bicycles were sent to the pawnshop or stored in the garret.

Then later on came the epoch of bridge whist. It answered the same purpose as bicycling, filled the same chasm that tango, turkey trot and similar gymnastic vagaries fill now. It had its day, but, as was recently remarked by a lady who used to teach bridge whist, "My occupation is gone; nobody is playing it any longer."

What will come next no one can foresee. Possibly these faddist devotees will conclude that their mistaken cravings will better be met by more substantial and creditable satisfactions.

In-Shoots

The majority of men who display courage are probably bluffing.

The success of the rogue sometimes neutralizes the efforts of the preacher.
